Doctor continues extradition fight

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) — Dr. Norman Garrison Jr., continued his fight today against proceedings that would return him to Missouri to face murder charges in the shooting death of his ex-wife.

A Marshall County Circuit Court hearing was set for today in the case.

Garrison, a Corinth physician, has been charged with murder in the Sept. 8 shooting of Lee Ann Garrison in her Kennett, Mo., home.

Garrison maintains he has witnesses who will swear he was on Pickwick Lake in northeastern Mississippi when the shooting occurred in the southeast Missouri town.

Gov. Bill Waller signed papers for Garrison's return to Missouri after he received assurances that the doctor would be released on bond pending his trial, but Garrison is fighting extradition.

Judge W. W. Brown last month delayed a hearing on the extradition warrant at the request of Missouri officials who said they wanted more time to gather their witnesses.

Holbert Goodman, a 42-year-old Missouri ex-convict, is expected to take the stand to give testimony about a gun confiscated from him following a recent armed robbery in Tennessee.

The gun is believed by Garrison's attorneys to be the one used to slay Mrs. Garrison.

Goodman was arrested in Somerville, Tenn., about 75 miles from Corinth. On the night of Goodman's arrest, two men reportedly were in Corinth trying to bribe a pair of cab drivers to steal personal items from Dr. Garrison's home.

Arrest records show Goodman was released from the Missouri State Penitentiary last October after serving seven years for armed robbery in Dunklin County. Upon his release from prison, Goodman moved to Parma, Mo.

4 arrested for Jan. 1 burglary

CHARLESTON — Donnie Joe O'Dell, 24 of Sikeston and Wendell David Britt, 28, and Gary Dowdy, 19, of East Prairie have been charged with burglary and stealing and are being held in Mississippi County jail under $5,000 bond each, according to Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom.

A 16-year-old East Prairie youth was also arrested on the same charges and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Charges against the four are in connection with the Jan. 1. break-in at Ditto's Shell Service Station in East Prairie. Six tires, 10 cartons of cigarettes, 17 pairs of gloves, a fence lock, flashlight and an automobile stereo with speakers were stolen.

Britt, Dowdy and the juvenile were arrested Saturday in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie. O'Dell was arrested Saturday in Sikeston by Scott County Deputy Gerald Inman, accompannied by Grissom and Ivie.

The three men will be arraigned Thursday in Magistrate Court

Thieves hit autos over weekend

Thieves entered two automobiles and a service station over the weekend, according to police.

Billy Joe Williams of Blodgett, told police someone took a tape player valued at $100 and a tape worth $4 from his car while it was parked at 621 Dempster. The theft occurred between, 6:20 p.m. Jan. 3 and 9:45 a.m. Jan. 4.

A purse and four stereo tapes were taken from a car owned by Kenneth Pinkerton, 202 Woodlawn, between 8:40 p.m. and 9:08 p.m. Saturday, while the car was parked at the home.

Pinkerton said he and Kay Stallings, 310 S. First St., went into the home for about 15 minutes and when they came out the items were taken.

Pinkerton said the tapes were valued at $20. The Stallings woman said the purse contained $20.

Burglars broke into the Uptown Shell service station, 131 S. Kingshighway, between 4 a.m. and 4:55 a.m. Saturday, and took $20 from the cash register. The burglar got into the building by breaking out a window in the front, by a door.

Police said today an inventory of the burglary of Proffers Bi-Rite, 1501 E. Malone Ave., showed that $350 in cash was taken, along with several cartons of cigarettes, two cases of beer and some cigarette lighters. The burglary occurred Jan. 2.

Inflation-Recession Conference planned

Key leaders in the six Bootheel counties are receiving invitations to an inflation-recession conference scheduled Jan. 23 at the Holiday Inn, Highway 61 South.

The program is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Missouri.

The primary objective of the conference is to help leaders gain a better understanding of key national issues facing the country and what must be done to solve the nation's problems.

Guest speakers from the University of Missouri will include four Department of Agricultural Economics faculty members, Harold Breimeyer, Joseph C. Meisner, Coy G. McNabb and Thomas G. Brown.

The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. and will include a Dutch treat luncheon.

Missing teens returned

CHARLESTON — Three East Prairie juveniles, a 15-year-old boy and two girls, ages 14 and 16, missing from their homes since Dec. 31, were picked up Sunday in Carlinville, Ill., according to Juvenile Officer Gorden Galemore, who said they had been returned to Mississippi County.

Charges of car theft may be filed against the three, who reportedly stole a car late Dec. 31 in Sikeston. The car owned by Wilma Baldwin of Sikeston was abandoned in a wooded area near Greenville.

Dorena grocery burns

DORENA — The R. H. Williams Grocery, built in 1938, was destroyed by fire about 5 a.m. Saturday.

The fire of undetermined origin began in the store and spread to the living quarters at the rear of the building, occupied by Mrs. Williams, her sister and a nephew.

Some household furnishings and a few articles of clothing were salvaged by neighbors.

Firemen from East Prairie responded to the call, but the frame building was engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Search for the eagles

By TIM LUDWIG

The National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D. C. recently announced the acquisition of land in South Dakota and Nebraska for use as a sanctuary for the bald eagle, the national symbol of the United States.

The 1,000 acres are located along the Missouri River near Pickstown, S.D. and have been designated by Rogers Morton, secretary of the interior, as a National Wildlife Refuge.

The land was purchawed by a unique "Save a Living Thing" fund raising campaign by the combined National Wildlife Federation and a national food store chain. The stores donated one cent from the sale of each bottle of a soft drink sold in all of the stores. The campaign raised more than $200,000 toward the purchase.

The bald eagle, while uncommon and not easy to spot, is no stranger to the Sikeston area. Several ranges, all within about an hour's drive of town, support winter populations of the huge bird. Three of the largest groups may be seen on a lucky day at Duck Creek and Mingo Wildlife Refuge near Puxico, Horsehoe Lake, about 10 miles north of Cairo, Ill., and at Union County Wildlife Refuge near Ware, Ill.

Officials at the three areas estimate the total number of birds at the refuges now at about 30 for Duck Creekand Mingo, about 50 or more at Horsehoe Lake and about 12 at Union County.

All three refuges contain large areas of water to support the birds' normal diet of fish. They also contain vast numbers of geese and other water fowl in the area for winter.

Problems in finding the eagles start with the water. The birds are usually seen perched near the tops of very tall trees hundreds of yards away in the middle of a lake. The adults are not hard to identify because of the flashing white-feathered head and tail, but the juveniles (up to four years old) may look at that distance like some of the more common hawks that are also found at these areas. The young eagles are almost uniformly brown in color and only their size of nearly three feet tall with a seven foot wing-span distinguishes them.

The bald eagle is a solitary bird in its winter ranges near here. It is suspicious of the upright figure of a human and not fond of fast noisy cars, so it is seldom seen near roads through the refuges. The best times to see the birds seem to be very early in the morning or near dusk when they may be closer to road areas and are likely to be active.

Eagles winter near Bootheel

10 persons injured in weekend accidents

A 14-year-old pedestrian was critically injured and nine persons received lesser injuries in six area traffic accidents over the weekend, according to the highway patrol.

Amlee Summers of Zalma Route One received critical injuries at 2:15 p.m. Saturday when struck by a car one and a half miles south of Clarkton on Highway 25.

According to the patrol, Miss Summers started across the highway and ran into the right side of a southbound car driven by Mardia Ree Jones, 39, of Clarkton.

She was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

A Bertrand youth was seriously injured in a one-car accident at 1:10 a.m. Saturday on Highway 77 two miles east of Benton.

The accident occurred when a southbound car driven by Terry Ramsy Cole, 19, ran off the road, struck two driveway culverts and overturned several times. Cole was thrown from the vehicle.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, from where he was later transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

A Sikeston woman was moderately injured and four Sullivan residents received minor injuries in a traffic accident at 9:20 p.m. Sunday on Highway 62 in Miner.

The accident occurred when a westbound van-type mobile home driven by Charles Paul, 39, of Sullivan made a left turn into the path of an eastbound car driven by Lillian Wyatt, 60, of Sikeston.

The woman received moderate injuries and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, then transferred to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries were four passengers in the Paul vehicle, Jean Paul, 35, Christina Paul, 12, Juliana Paul, 9, and Johnna Paul, 6.

A one-vehicle accident on Interstate 55 at 6:30 a.m. Saturday half a mile north of Steele resulted in minor injuries to the driver.

The accident occurred when a northbound van driven by Ina Culbertson, 20, of St. Louis swerved to avoid another vehicle partially on the pavement, then ran off the road and overturned.

She was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti for treatment of minor injuries.

Congress to proceed with CIA probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders say their planned investigations into the CIA's alleged domestic intelligence work will proceed even though President Ford has appointed an eight-man commission to probe the spy agency.

Ford named Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to head the commission Sunday which was created to "determine whether the CIA has exceeded its statutory authority." The agency, which is limited by law to foreign intelligence, allegedly has spied on Americans in the United States.

The panel is to report in 90 days. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the report would be sent to Congress and released to the public.

The other commissioners appointed by Ford were former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, retired Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, former Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Joseph Lane Kirkland, retired University of Virginia President Edgar F. Shannon, former Commerce Secretary John T. Connor and former Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott praised the commission members as "distinguished men without personal axes to grind" and as "men of great national reputation."

But Scott said it was necessary for the congressional inquiries to go ahead. CIA investigations previously were announced by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House CIA oversight committee; Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate CIA oversight panel; and Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., incoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Nedzi, vowing to continue his panel's probe, welcomed the appointment of the presidential commission and said he would appreciate any insights the commission may offer "into the problem of reconciling a secret agency with an open society."

The House CIA subcomnittee will meet next week to map its investigation. Nedzi said he will urge that the panel's work be done in public.

Neither Stennis nor Sparkman was immediately available for comment.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who conducted his own personal inquiry into the CIA's links with the Watergate scandal, commended Ford for creating the commission. Baker added that the commission did not reduce the need for independent congressional action.

The make-up of the commission came under some criticism. One lawmaker, who asked not to be identified, said the close personal relationship between Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made it a "self investigation."

Kissinger also serves as head of the National Security Council, which is directly responsible for the CIA. Kissinger is known to have urged Ford to create such a commission.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the panel was "very one-sided."

Time grows short for interest hike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The final act in the legislature's attempt to hike the state's 8 per cent interest ceiling opens today as a third compromise measure goes to the Senate for debate.

Both the House and the Senate will have only two days to reach a final decision on the bill, the major reason Gov. Christopher S. Bond called the special session, since the regular session of the new 78th General Assembly officially begins at noon Wednesday.

The bill, the third effort to merge House and Senate proposals since the session began Nov. 19, had been passed by the Senate in a similar form before the holiday recess and no major opposition is expected during discussion of the bill today.

But a combine of rural and urban legislators in the House are expected to continue their fight against the proposal when that chamber gets back to work this afternoon, some on the grounds that there is no need for any boost at all and others based on opposition to so-called points, or a percentage of a loan paid at the time it is secured.

The debate on the bill resumed only a few days after two federal government institutions announced reductions in interest rates for home buyers, one for the eighth straight time.

The bill, which was sent to a joint conference committee Dec. 19 for technical modications that backers hope will increase rural support for its passage, boosts the interest ceiling on home and all agricultural loans from 8 per cent, among the lowest in the nation, to 10 per cent.

It would allow a maximum charge of two points on home loans and permit a prepayment penalty charge if the loan is paid off during the first five years.

The compromise version exempts from any limit corporate loans, business and other loans secured by bonds or similar collateral over $5,000 and nonresidential or nonagricultural real estate loans.

Urban redevelopment corporations would be able to pay 10 per cent interest on the bonds they issue instead of the current 6 per cent and violations of the new law would be a misdemeanor.

The legal charges would go into effect immediately upon the signature of the governor if two-thirds of each house approves of that emergency provision.

"I think it has a better than 50-50 chance of passing," said House Minotiry Leader Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood, although several GOP representatives cast votes during action on the bill last month that indicated they opposed the measure, which is supported by Bond.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Stupid mistakes are always made by others ... we only make unavoidable errors.

A SECRET DEAL?

Did Secretary of State Henry Kissinger enter into a secret "deal" with the Soviets whereby the United States would silence "Voice of America" broadcasts which might tend to curtail Soviet ambitions in Spain, Latin America, and the Caribbean?

What else can explain the reason why, while the Communists are increasing their radio propaganda programs beamed from Havana, Peking, Moscow and Prague, the USA has cancelled hours and whole programs formerly broadcast toArgentineans, Brazilians, Spaniards, Cubans, Mexicans,Colombians, Chileans, Bolivians, Panamanians, Costa Ricans, Uruguayans,Venezuelans, Guatemalans and others?

On Saturday, December 6, "Voice of America" abruptly discontinued their program, "A Date with Cuba." It has been on the air for 14 years, and it was the only dependable source of news for the Cuban people opposing Castro.

Director of "Voice of America" James Keogh further announced that programs presenting excerpts from The Gulag Archipelago by Nobel Prize winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn to the radio-listeners in Latin America would also be discontinued. Naturally the Reds are not happy with The Gulag Archipelago. It is a formidalbe indictment of Soviet tyranny, terror and torture.

Our State Department policy apparently dictates that while the Communists are free to broadcast any amount of criticism against the United States and the free world, when it comes to telling the truth about Communism we are to keep our mouths shut.

If that, indeed, is State Department policy — and we have heard no denials as yet — then it is time for President Ford to start looking around for a replacement for our Secretary of State. The Communists must not be allowed to dictate what we say or do not say on the "Voice of America." —

If all the houses are painted the same color, it's a project, if they're different, it's a private development.

It seems that Congress has voted for an oversupply of lawyers by passing the program — CLEO (Council on Legal Educational Opportunity) - which provides scholarships for more people to become lawyers. The U.S. Department of Labor reported that the record number of law-school graduates last June is almost twice as many needed annually to fill legal job openings (30,075 passed bar examinations; only 16,500 legal jobs are expected to be open each year).

One of the people who actually oversees the CLEO program is Chesterfield Smith, liberal past president of the American Bar Association, who "estimates there will be twice as many lawyers by 1985 as there are today." While he "doubts the present American legal system can profitably employ them all, a changed system which would enable anyone who needs a lawyer to afford one, would create a need for ev en m ore lawyers."

Undoubtedly one reason why Smith backs such schemes as the $400-million-per-year Legal Services Corporation plan is to expand a nationwide network of job opportunities for government subsidized lawyers, many of them CLEO graduates.

A Sikeston merchant complimented one of his clerks, and the next day the clerk asked for an increase in wages.

We don't know what prompted the editor of a nearby newspaper to write this plea: "...To save the editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper regularly. To save him from despair and overwork of his imaginative faculties, send him every item of news you can get hold of. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence p lainly on one side of the sheet and send it in promptly. To save him from taking on the misanthropic looks of a pug dog, give him words of encouragement when he publishes something good. To save him from mistakes, bury him for dead people are the only ones who do not make mistakes."

Irritating, isn't it? To see trucks, out-of-state cars and American sports model cars speeding by you at 60-plus mph?

"The current increase in small car use 'will lead to a greater number of injuries, 'including fatal and crippling injuries, a University of Michigan research group has warned, '" notes a publication of the Automobile Club of Oregon. The article continues, "The group based its conclusion on an extensive analysis of crash injury data from national and local crash investigation files. Its analysis showed, it said, that the following rule should be applied to new car in crashes: '... once involved in an accident, the chance of injury in this car increases at the rate of about 2.5 per per cent for each decrease of 100 pounds in vehicle weight.' The analysis also indicated that smaller cars are involved in single vehicle crashes at a significantly higher rate than larger cars, and in other crashes at about the same rate as larger cars ... the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles and the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (finds) that occupants of compact and smaller size cars are substantially more vulnerable to death and serious injury in crashes than occupants of sedan and larger size cars."

TURN OVER A NEW LEAF, CONGRESS

A new President and a new Congress will be starting a new year in another week. We fear there' ll be a lot of plans to spend more foreign aid, spend more civic aid to fight depression, increase te amount of benefits to those independent, fearless people who go on strike and deprive the remainder of us the way of life we have won by working long hours for anything we could get to keep on living. One Senator has declared he will not run again because Congress has no desire to live within its means. Wouldn't it be a great thing if all Congressmen would either resign or declare they would quit spending and start trying to pay what we owe. We know, of course, that our debt will never be paid in our lifetime.

NEW CAMPAIGN REGULATIONS AFFECT ALL POLITICAL GROUPS

This information may further add to your confusion since President Ford reluctantly signed into law the far-reaching campaign reforms. This legislation affects every political organization in the country and for the first time gets the federal government into the business of financing Presidential campaigns and nominating conventions. It is this part of the law in particular that some of us had serious reservations. This type of raid on the U.S. Treasury is especially questionable when Congress should be doing everything within its power to cut, not increase federal spending. Taxpayer financing, even on a limited basis, could destabilize the two-party system and allow third party movements emerging during a period of political crisis to become permanent fixtures.

For the present, at least, Congress stopped short of imposing this public financing chaos on Congressional elections. However, the Democrats in majority did work their will by setting low spending limits which clearly favor incumbents.

On the positive side, the new law creates a full-time independent election commission with civil enforcement power over all federal election laws. This bipartisan commission will set regulations, receive campaign reports, and initiate court actions to obtain injunctive relief and declaratory judgments.

Another provision in the new law is that it clealy establishes national and state committees of a political party as separate and distinct from special interest groups. As such, they will have the right to expend funds above and beyond the limits the new law imposes on all federal candidates.

Limitations on contributions:

1. No individual may contribute more than $1,000 to a candidate for federal office in any primary, run-off and general election ($3,000 potential). In addition, during a calendar year no individual may contribute more than $25,000 in total to political committees covered by federal law.

2. No political committee and-or special interest group may contribute more than $5,000 to a candidate for federal office in any primary, run-off and general election (15,000 potential).

3. A candidate and his family may contribute to his own race an amount up to $50,000 for Presidential election, $35,000 for the Senate and $25,000 for the House.

4. Cash contributions may not exceed $100, and foreign nationals may not make contributions.

Limitation on expenditures:

1. $10 million total for Presidential campaigns through the convention.

2. $20 million in the Presidential general election.

3. The greater of $100,000 or eight cents times the voting age population (VAP) in Senate primray elections.

4. The greater of $150,000 or twelve cents times the VAP in Senate general elections.

5. $70,000 in primary and general House elections.

6. Each candidate is allowed a 20 per cent exemption for fund raising cost.

7. The new law specifically allows the following kinds of expenditures to be made above and beyond the limits stated above:

(A) The national and state committees of a political party can each spend $10,000 in each House election and two cents times the VAP in Senate elections.

(B) Any individual citizen may on his own initiaitiative spend up to $1,000 on any campaign he or she chooses. However, if such expenditures exceed $100 within a calendar year the individual must file a disclosure statement with the Commission.

Some other major points:

Corporations and labor organizations are now allowed to maintain separate, segregated funds to be utilized for political purposes so long as contributions to such funds are voluntary.

The limitations on expenditures for use of communications media are repealed.

STALLING INCREASES ONLY HURTS MORE

Add to the lexicon of lament inspired by inflation and the energy crisis the term "regulatory lag."

This is the delay or gap between the date that a utility files an application for a rate chance and the date that the change is approved by a state's public utility commission. The gap, according to a survey of 31 states just completed by Electrical World magazine, averages nine months to a year.

In Arizona, however, one case began in 1970 and wasn't decided until 404 days later, in 1972. In Ohio, one application has been pending since May, 1972. Hearings began only in February of this year.

Hit by rising costs like everybody else, the nation's utilities are increasingly citing the problem of "regulatory lag" as a key element in the troubles they are having raising investment capital.

Most consumers, of course, are just as happy to see an increase in their electric or gas bills postponed as long as possible. But according to one electric utility spokesman, Alvan W. Vogtle Jr., president of The Southern Company, the real victims of regulatory lag are consumers, more than the utilities.

Unduly long delay means deteriorating service and a cutback in construction of new generating facilities, he points out. Thus it is the consumer who finds his future energy needs unmet who will suffer in the end.

All the while, Vogtle adds, inflation — particularly the "double-digit" inflation the country is currently experiencing — adds to operating expenses. Thus when a rate increase does become effective, utilities are already at the point where the additional revenues are not enough.

This has given rise to a phenemenon called "pancaking." This occurs — and it is occurring more and more frequently — when a utility finds it necessary to apply for another general rate increase even before a previous application has been processed.

As a result, the regulatory commissions in some states are being swamped by pyramiding paperwork. As a result, not only is there administrative chaos but uncertainty about the utilities' real needs in the minds of consumers, who inevitably feel that they are the ones being "pancaked."

Understaffing is, in fact, cited as the chief cause of regulatory lag in the first place. In Pennsylvania, for example, the number of specialists on the public utility commission has remained unchanged while the number of rate cases has tripled in the past four or five years.

Fortunately, the states are beginning to attack the problem, either by hiring additional staff, granting interim relief, imposing time limits or all of these.

In Nevada, there is a statutory 180-day period to process rate applications, after which requests are automatically in force. Ken Kentucky a statutory limit of 10 months to process applications is in effect. In Delaware, a utility can collect a higher rate 60 days after filing application and hold the additional revenues in bond until a decision is reached.

There wouldn't be this problem if gas or electric or telephone service could be sold on the open market where competition would establish the going rate. It is because of the nature of the products or services they provide that the nation's utilities must be monopolies, albeit legal, regulated ones.

But even though the utilities are regulated by the states on behalf of the public, anyone who thinks that a rate increase postponed is a rate increase that will never happen is only kidding himself.

COMMISSION SAYS FIRE LOSSES CAUSED BY PUBLIC INDIFFERENCE

Within a single typical hour, an average 300 fires will rage somewhere in the U.S., according to a report issued last year by the National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control.

These blazes will kill an average of one person, injuring an additional 34 and destroying more than $300,000 worth of property, the report reveals.

Public indifference and ignorance keep the flames fanned, the commission reports. To curb these alarming statistics, it suggests families make a checklist of ways to eliminate fire hazards from the home; conduct a "rehearsal" of steps to be taken in case of fire; and install fire extinguishers, escape ladders and early-warning fire detectors that sound an alarm when activated by excessive heat or smoke.

Since 80 per cent of home fires resulting in death or injury occur between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. when people are asleep, the majority of victims die from inhaling poisonous fumes before the flames ever reach them. Thus, if victims are awakened to the presence of fire in its early stages, many lives can be saved, the commission points out.

Among specific safety guidelines offered by the commission are the followiag fire prevention suggestions:

. Never leave small children at home unattended. Make sure matches, lighters, flames, and spark sources are out of their reach.

. Never smoke in bed. Thoroughly extinguish all cigarette butts, cigar and pipe ashes before disposing of them in a garbage container.

. Have all furnaces, water heaters, stoves, ovens and smokepipes inspected annually. Learn how to take proper care of these systems throughout the year.

Should fire break out, the commission recommends the following actions:

. Never open a door if it feels hot or if smoke is seeping in around the edges. A closed door will help keep the fire and poisonous smoke contained.

. Never run through a smoke-filled area to escape. Crawl low on the floor, and if possible, hold a damp cloth over your mouth and nose.

. If trapped in a room, open slightly a window furthest from the door and put your face to the opening to breathe.

DANGEROUS ATTITUDE

Nine times out of ten, when an energy industry spokesman talks about the energy problem, the old viewpoint is taken that he has an ax to grind—that he is talking for the benefit of his industry alone. As an industry spokesman, he has two strikes against him before he opens his mouth. This antediluvian attitude is a luxury the country can no longer afford.

The menace of this is well-demonstrated in California, a state that for as long as most of us can remember has been the fastest growing area in the nation. Had it not been for California's farsighted, progressive utility industry, that state would be confronted with an energy crisis. Twenty years ago, the electric companies of the region saw the handwriting on the wall in the form of diminishing fuel supplies. The first commercially-licensed nuclear power plant went into operation in California in 1957. If siting problems and safety questions can be settled, the state's best hope for meeting power needs in the next two decades lies in development of nuclear power plants along the coast where it has been proven that sea water can be used for cooling purposes without harming marine life. The claim has been made that California's coastline is threatened with a "picket fence" of nuclear power plants. This is the type of myth with which the utility industry must contend. The chairman of the board of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, one of the most articulate pleaders for public "understanding" of the energy issue, has time and again sought to put the picket fence myth at rest. He says a 1970 state study indicates that nine nuclear power plant sites along the coast should be developed. The development would run through the year 2000, and the plants would occupy coastal frontage amounting to about six miles -- or eight tenths of one per cent of the 725 miles of coastline in this company's service territory.

In pointing out these facts, this utility executive speaks in behalf of the future of the people of California. He concludes, "Remember that energy is needed to create new jobs ... for every job-holder in California who will reach normal retirement age during this decade, two young people will enter the job market. Jobs for them all will require more electric energy." If people wish to eat and live in the years ahead, they must begin to recognize and act on the fact that energy is the basis of life itself.

Inside Labor

Victor Riesel

Labor in 1975: Union Chiefs' Strategy Calls for Prodding Congress Into Heavy Rooseveltian Era Spending

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford would do well to roll the wagons into a circle around the Oval Office. He's being stalked by the labor chiefs, slowly, and politely but steadily, almost unnoticeably.

For example, most of those personally invited by the White House to come over and witness the signing of the trade snubbed him and it.

That's a smoke signal of the labor "movement's" strategy for 1975. The attack will mount slowly on the industrial, legislative and political fronts. The first major assault will come during the AFL-CIO's own mini-convention here at the Statler Hilton Jan. 23 — right after the President's speech on the state of his own union.

After that labor, literally and figuratively, will march up the Hill to pressure Congress as it has never before been prodded since George Washington rejected the crown.

This is political realism. This will be the exertion of political power in its most scientific essentials. This is the moment for which labor chief George Meany and his colleagues have built their smoothly purring (growing actually) political movement which is a party in all but name. Not in Meany's lifetime will there be a national "Labor Party," but he did tell an interviewer recently:

"I may be bragging and if I am I'm going to brag. We have a better machine than the Republican National Committee and the Democratic National Committee. And I say that advisedly."

And the national labor leaders now feel they have more power in Congress than ever before in its history. They believe that they can "prod" the Congress into passing virtually all labor's economic proposals — and that President Ford can veto and veto but that he will be roughly overriden on the Hill.

What does labor want to prod out of Congress to prevent what it calls "economic disaster"?

The list is long. Basically labor wants more and heavier federal spending. But most of all it wants the top brass. Boatswains who lose their silver whistles are charged $4 for a new one. A cent annually.

They argue that the high interest rates virtually alone whistles for $3.25 each ... The unleashed the recession. They say state of Georgia has found a novel it now costs the federal govern- means of gettin some of that new ment $10 billion more in interest Arab money into the South. It has payments a year to operate. They bought the entire back cover of reckon this alone has dried up Fokes magazine ot invite Arabs to funds for massiv projects, docate industries below the created a "disaster area" in the Mason-Dixon line. The magazine construction field and omitted the will be distributed throughout the utilities lnanseid by high fuel Arab world, with articles ex- rates.

plaining American business to the Labor wants allocation of such power since 1969. They want money poured into practical projects, into residential building, utility construction, dams, airports, schools, etc. And "not into luxurious seaside condominiums."

They want the freeing of billions of dollars for capital construction, mass transportation, etc., money allocated but frozen by the White House for several years now.

They want a tax cut in "the middle income and lower brackets," federalization of unemployment insurance, and a broad National Health Insurance Act.

They will demand the spending of billions on massive works in the tradition of the late Sens. Robert Lafollette and George Norris, the left of center in the '20s and '30s, the protagonists of vast dams and similar huge federal works such as the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Discussing these men with a television interviewer recently Meany half seriously, half sarcastically, said "Perhaps we need some 'socialistic' ideas to get us out of this dilemma that we are in."

In this prodding of Congress into a Rooseveltian -era spending policy, Meany and the AFL-CIO are not alone. Working closely with them are Leonard Woodcock's United Auto Workers and Arnold Miller's United Mine Workers. These men consult regularly — and that includes private discussions with Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons on policies to push when they eyeball it with Jerry Ford during the Labor-Management Committee sessions.

Together they are an ultra-powerful political combine. And the word is "together." Some political observers interpreted the Democratic Kansas City mini-convention as an "AFL-CIO-COPE" defeat. It wasn't. The anti-quota bloc lost. There was no labor split. On the socio-economic front there is almost all-pervading unity.

The Committee on Political Education already is deep in politics, the nitty-gritty kind. Preparing to elect mayors and city councils, pressuring state legislatures as will as setting up for the 1976 political Super Bowl.

There will be a series of private skull sessions of labor's most active political leaders to assay labor's political solidarity and avoid open conflict between the quota and non-quota forces. An COPE's director Al Barkan will be all over the place with his fundamentalist peliion punching on the evils of all but the working class.

Perhaps forming the wagons into a circle won't be enough — Jerry Ford should have a titanium shelter handy where he can study

Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: More on the Klassen Corps

WASHINGTON — In past columns, we have reported on the cozy relationship that exists between the postal authorities who dish out the taxpayers' money and the postal contractors who rake it in.

Here's the latest example we have uncovered — a juicy, $7.1 million deal:

It began three years ago with a scheme to sell commemorative stamp books to generate revenue. This became a pet project of Postmaster General Ted Klassen and then Asst. Postmaster General Ben Bailar.

They awarded a $500,000 contract to the Scott Publishing Co. to handle the project. No other bids were solicited; the contract simply was bequeathed to the company from on high.

In the manner of government manna, the $500,000 quickly began to multiply. Another $2.1 million was added in 1973, then $2.4 million more in 1974. Further modifications ran the grand total to $7.1 million.

Now here's the cozy coincidence. One of Scott Publishing's vice presidents, Jack Taub, was a close friend and personal adviser to Bailar.

But it gets even cozier. Scott Publishing needed someone to print the stamp books. The printing contract, adding up to over $1 million, was granted to Industries America.

This happens to be a wholly owned subsidiary of American Can, the company that Klassen and Bailar used to run before they joined the Postal Service.

Bailar contends that he asked his friend Taub to make sure there was competition for the million-dollar printing contract. Taub claims he gave the contract to Industries America, because the paper shortage had left other companies without enough paper to handle the job.

This is disputed by congressional investigators who claim at least half a dozen other firms could have done the printing. But this much is certain: The $7.1 million stamp book deal is typical of the way the Postal Service, under Klassen andBailar, does business.

Footnote: The questionable contract hasn't hurt Bailar's postal career. He was just promoted to be deputy postmaster general, the No. 2 spot in the postal hierarchy.

CARNIVOROUS SHREDDER: The Kemp Leaf Shredder, which is supposed to chew up autumn leaves, has also shredded the arms of at least a dozen people.

One dentist, trying to push material into the shredder with the stick that comes with the machine, had his hand drawn into the rotating blades. He lost his hand and thus his livelihood.

The danger, according to the confidential Kemp file, was called to the attention of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in September 1973. It took the bureaucrats three full months even to contact the Kemp Co. about the problem.

Not until March 1974 was th Bureu of Standaards asked to test the shredder. It took another four months for the bureaucrats to discover the machine was hazardous.

From July until October, memos were exchanged and meetings were held. Finally, in late October, the commission decided to ask the company for a voluntary response.

On November 7, some 14 months after the commission had been alerted to the danger, a warning was issued. It was worded as if the company had just discovered the problem and had voluntarily notified the commission.

Were the dangerous shredders then removed from the market? No, the commission was satisfied with a mechanical "fix" and a warning sign on all machines. A draft press release demonstrates how the bureaucrats protect the consumer. It begins:

"Consumers can protect themselves by taking the following steps: 1. Do not use the machine...."

Footnote: A spokesman for the commission explained with refreshing candor that the delays had occurred "because our staff is screwed up." But he contended things are getting straightened out. The Kemp Co., for is part, promised to do what was "morally right," even to the point of going out of business to correct the hazard.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Early this year, the Senate Commerce Committee will call in government officials to find out why they failed to protect workers from vinyl chloride, the deadly gas used to make plastics, auto upholstery, garden hoses, phonograph records and other goods. The gas has caused liver cancers in vinyl chloride workers and is suspected of causing birth defects in Ohio towns near an industrial plant using the gas .... The Navy makes a 75 per cent profit on those shrill boatswains' pipes used for "piping aboard" the top brass. Boatswains who lose their silver whistles are charged $4 for a new one. A purchase order shows that the Navy recently bought 2,000 of the whistles for $3.25 each ... The state of Georgia has found a novel means of gettin some of that new Arab money into the South. It has bought the entire back cover of Fokes magazine ot invite Arabs to docate industries below the Mason-Dixon line. The magazine will be distributed throughout the Arab world, with articles explaining American business to the

Brunke-Colley wed

Mrs. Lynn A. Colley

Saundra Lee Brunke and Lynn Allan Colley were united in marriage Dec. 14 in the First Federal Savings and Loan Association community room. James E. Evans of Independence, a Jehovah's Witnesses overseer and uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Cumpton, David Road, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard V. Colley, 305 Edmondson Drive.

Three large white screens, draped at the top and sides with garlands of greenery and apricot net, formed the background. The screens were flanked by two large brass candelabra with white tapers entwined from candle to base with garlands of greenery and large apricot bows.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a soft ivory polyester crystal creation with the classic silhouette. The dress was trimmed with imported French Chantilly lace accented with tiny satin bows and apricot rosettes. The Victorian neckline and billowy sleeves also were highlighted with Chantilly lace, apricot rosettes and encrusted with seed pearls. She wore a picture hat overlaid with re-embroidered Chantilly lace and accented with tiny seed pearls and apricot rosettes.

She carried a cascade of apricot gladiola blooms centered with apricot carnations, ivory rosebuds and baby's breath. The attached ivory, lace, ribbon streamers were studded with apricot rosettes.

Mrs. Ginger Fisher of Marion, Ill., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Becky Barnes and Mrs. Annette Graham were bridesmaids.

They wore gowns of apricot rayon chiffon overlaid with tafgfeta and featuring contour waistlines and spaghetti strapped bodices with removable capes. The smooth skirts included a wide flounce at the hemline highlighted with ivory Venise lace and apricot rosettes.

They wore crown-to-cheek accents of silk apricot rosettes and leaves on one side of their hair. Each carried a long-stemmed ivory rose accented with baby's breath and ribbons in various shades of mint green and apricot.

Brooke Anne Brunke, the bride's daughter, was escorted down the aisle by Billy Dowell Newman. She wore a floor-length gown of ivory puckerette overlaid with ivory Nottingham lace in a granny square design. The gown was flounced at the hemline. The long, sheer lace, puffed sleeves were cuffed with puckerette and accented at the waist with ivory Venise lace entwined with mint green ribbons and green and apricot rosettes.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Since Christmas is the season to be jolly, I wanted to share a mimeographed note that fell out of a Christmas card. No opinion is needed. I have already formed my own.

"Dear friend, I thought you might like to know that the doctors removed a tumor the size of a baseball from Gertrude's stomach. It was not malignant, Lord be praised. She is getting along fine. Gert ate a corned beef sandwich last night, her first in years. It looks like we will have a happy 1975, after all. Hope you do, too." (Signature Deleted.) How's THAT for taste..--Philadelphia

Dear Phil: "To each his own," said the lady as she kissed the baboon.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 44years old, although I could pass for 35 easy. When my husband died three years ago I went into a depression. My daughter and son-in-law were a great comfort to me. I love them both very much.

I'm ashamed to admit it but I began to love my son-in-law TOO much. We became involved in a sexual relationship which I thought would end in a few months, but it didn't.

Now I find I am pregnant and don't know what to do. I haven't told my son-in-law, but my daughter has already commented on my added weight. (She has no idea what has been going on.)

Because I am in the menopause I wasn't sure I was pregnant until I went to the doctor yesterday. He confirmed it.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do.--Frantic

Dear Fran: Go back to your doctor immediately and ask him what he feels is the best approach to your problem. You should discuss some important facts with him which you omitted from your letter. (1) Would abortion violate your religious principles.. (2) Would it be safe at this time.. (3) How would you, a widow, feel about raising a child without a husband..

I strongly advise against revealing the identity of the child's father should you decide to have it. Such a revelation would almost surely ruin your daughter's marriage and create endless problems. Good luck to you. You'll need it.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I heard my husband laughing and asked him what was so funny. He said, "That Ann Landers is something else!" So I read the column, and now I'm writing--something I never thought I'd do.

I've been married 40 years, raised three children of my own and several for relatives. Our kitchen has always been a happy place. I've seen tiny tots on chairs frosting cookies, teenagers making fudge, and college boys broiling hamburgers. I have also stood in that kitchen for hours, cooking for neighbors who have had a death in the family.

We have a rule in our house. If you are too busy to do the dishes, don't worry--somebody will do them. The rule works and nobody gets mad.

This morning when my husband left for work he gave me an extra kiss and said, "Thanks for your messy kitchen." I know what hemeant. My kitchen looked like a tornado had hit it, because I've been busy with a relative's sick child. Those silly dishes can wait. They aren't people who need love.--Michigander

Dear Mich: People ARE more important than things, but your "standing rule" wouldn't work in most families. They'd run out of clean dishes and somebody would always be mad.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Illinois 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Spane-Hargrove are united

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Hargrove

ORAN--Miss Diana Lynn Spane and James Michael Hargrove were married Dec. 22 at the Perkins General Baptist Church. The Rev. Robert Johnsor of Scott City officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Spane and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cotton Anderson.

Tina Hency was maid of honor, and Ray Cook, uncle of the bridegroom, was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the couple's home in Oran.

Guests were Billy and Connie Anderson, brother and sister of the bridegroom and Jeana and Renee Hency.

Mrs. Hargrove is a sophomore and Hargrove a junior at Oran High School.

World News

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Newman celebrated his 101st birthday and vowed to continue as pastor of St. Peter's Baptist Church "as long as I am able."

"I feel just the same as I did when I was 25," he told well-wishers Sunday at a reception at the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church. "I just thank God for the privilege of being here this long."

He has served as pastor of St. Peter's about 40 years.

SEATTLE (AP) — Ducks may look picturesque paddling across a lake, but from the standpoint of water quality the view is not so pretty.

John Courchene of the city Water Department says eight ducks create as much pollution as one man. "If you've got 2,000 ducks in a reservoir, you've got trouble," he says.

Water Supt. Kenneth Lowthian says one of the worst problem areas is Youngs Lake in southeast King County, where rockets are being used to scare off the ducks.

The seven-inch rockets are fired over a group of rafting ducks. The missiles explode in a burst of cardboard and paper confetti, scaring away the ducks.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Layoffs in many industries have boosted the ranks of those willing to take low-paying, strenuous jobs as fruit pickers, industry officials say.

"The entire crop is going to be picked this year for the first time in a long time," says Dan K. Richardson, chairman of the Florida Citrus Commmission.

Says Richardson, "Any time you've got a large labor market, it's going to stabilize the people who work in the groves. "We're getting better production, as a rule, than in the past few years."

Other officials say layoffs in Florida's leading industries of tourism and construction are responsible for the large labor force in the groves.

Official estimate about 26,000 pickers are needed each year.

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Baird, who has made a name as a champion of birth control, says that threats on his life may force him into retirement.

Baird, who is currently involved in a court challenge of the Massachusetts law that requires minors to gain their parents' consent for an abortion, said Sunday death threats have already forced him to live apart from his family.

"I really don't know where my life is going to go this year after this case," Baird said in an interview on WNAC-TV's Newsmakers show. "But I do wish there would be some people out there who'd recognize that all I'm trying to say for these 11 years is that people have a right to be free and control their own bodies."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Seven county officials in California have found a way to beat the soaring cost of living. They collect a salary and a pension for the same government job. By retiring from office for only a few days, the seven — including five sheriffs — have taken advantage of a loophole in state law. They are now eligible for two checks a month. All seven left office Dec. 31 after up to 32 years service. They begin new elected terms in the same offices today and will begin to receive both pension and salary checks. Monterey County Sheriff W.A. Davenport was the first official to declare this year he would take advantage of the loophole. He will get a $1,500-a-month pension along with his $2,400-a-month salary.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy says former President Richard M. Nixon did not act ruthlessly enough in coping with the scandal and should have destroyed the tape recordings that eventually drove him from office.

Waltrip named drive treasurer

W. H. Waltrip, 100 Daniel St., has been appointed a campaign treasurer for this year's Scott County march against Muscular Dystrophy, according to Kent Hornberger, district director for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc. for eastern Missouri.

On Jan. 14, volunteer marchers will conduct a house to house appeal for funds to continue the research work of the associations and to provide patient services to those affilicted with neuromuscular disease in Scott and other eastern Missouri counties.

Waltrip, a bank cashier, said, "The Scott County drive is part of a nationwide effort on the part of hundreds of thousands of volunteers. In the interest of community service and for the convenience of the volunteer marchers and donors, the Secrutiy National Bank will be the depository for local campaign funds."

Dexter not liable in death

DEXTER — A Stoddard County CircuitCourt jury ruled Monday in Bloomfield that the city of Dexter was not liable in the death of a 4-year-old boy who drowned in a rain swollen drainage ditch in Dexter May 21.

The $100,000 liability suit was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Peacock of Dexter, parents of John Randal Peacock, the vvictim.

The petition filed by Mr. and Mrs. Peacock stated that the city was negligent in construction of the ditch and in allowing it to exist, and that the open ditch was in a dangerous and unguarded condition and that the ditch filled with water from a great portion of the city and flowed at a rapid rate through a residential area of Dexter.

According to Dexter police, the Peacock child was playing alongside the ditch on Locust street near old Highway 60 with his two brothers, Mike, 18, and Jerry, 10, when rapidly- flowing water swept him off his feet and into the open ditch. He was carried almost four blockks before he was found and pulled out of the ditch. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Dexter Memorial Hospital after several attempts to revive him failed.

Man of Year to be named

DEXTER--The selection of the Man of the Year will be announced at the annual Chamber of Commerce installation banquet, scheduled at 7 p.m. today in the Catholic Hall.

Dr. Neil C. Aslin, formerly of Bloomfield and now a member of the University of Missouri-Columbia faculty, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Lamb

Reader has rock on belly

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Am I hurting myself by placing a flat rock (20 pounds) on my stomach? I usually lie flat on the floor, place the rock on my stomach and concentrate on flexing my stomach muscles.

It's very difficult for me to lose my flabby stomach. Swimming, bicycle riding or exercising all summer did not even phase the fat bulge.

I'm 47, female and weigh 150 pounds. I'm 67 inches tall. I was warned by a friend that a heavy object on the stomach is unhealthy. I disagree.

DEAR READER — Whether a heavy object on the stomach is dangerous or not depends on what it is. If you are not careful you will win the weight-lifting contest for the stomach muscle division.

Whenever you want to strengthen a muscle you should do exercises that contract that muscle. You do exercises that bend the elbow to strengthen the biceps. By using a weight while bending the elbow and contracting the biceps you progressively strengthen and enlarge the biceps muscle.

The main stomach muscles are attached at the lower part of your ribs and to the ligaments and bones of the pelvis. When you do a sit-up these muscles are contracted and strengthened. Ordinary sit-ups affect the upper muscles most and lying on your back while lifting your feet off the floor with the knees straight helps strengthen the lower muscles. So sit-ups and leg lifts or those exercises that are modifications of these basic exercises are the ones that help to tighten up the abdomen.

Voluntarily contracting and relaxing the abdominal muscles helps, too, whether you are lying down, sitting or standing. Literally sucking in that abdomen as much as you can and holding this position five to 15 seconds, resting, and then repeating the maneuver for regular exercise periods daily does help some.

Your problem is not unusual. You simply cannot get rid of a fat abdomen without getting rid of fat. A person with poor muscle tone and a sagging pot can improve the shape of the abdomen with exercise, but if you have fat inside the abdominal cavity and under the skin, the only thing that works is eliminating the fat. This usually requires a change in diet, combined with an exercise program. There is no way you can compress a pound of lard and make it smaller. The same is true of body fat.

Now that rock on the stomach may not cause you any trouble, but I'm not wild about the idea. People who have a hernia through the diaphragm shouldn't do this because the increased pressure would help force the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm. Obesity contributes to this type of hernia, and it is quite common in middle-aged or older people. Pregnancy causes a temporary hernia of this sort in over half of pregnant women. If you have no tendency toward a hiatal hernia and have had no difficulty with the rock, I doubt it will harm you, but don't expect too much from it. You can get much better results if you can lose excess body fat with a good dietary program. That doesn't mean one of the fad or crash diet efforts, either.

What's the law?

The case of the pious prisoner

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Peter claimed to believe in God, but he was fearful that God didn't believe in him. Jailed for having committed a social wrong, he became somewhat of a religious fanatic.

For example, he insisted upon growing a beard, despite a prison regulation prohibiting such shrubbery, claiming that it was a gift from his creator and was required for pious reasons.

Taking a dim view of Pete's pious assertions, the prison warden insisted that Pete shave off his beard and Pete took the matter to court.

"The regulation violates my constitutional freedom of religion," insisted the prisoner vehemently. "What God has given, no man may put asunder. And, God gave me my beard."

"That may be," conceded the warden, "but, we can't have prisoners running around with beards. Aside from reasons of health, if they all started to wear beards we wouldn't be able to tell one prisoner from another. Without knowing who's who, we wouldn't be able to tell what's what."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit pious Pete to keep his beard.

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that lawful incarceration brings with it necessary limitations of many privileges and rights. For reasons of personal cleanliness and for personal identification, concluded the judge, the regulation against beards, under prison conditions, appears neither unreasonable nor arbitrary.

Shelby State beats TRCC

POPLAR BLUFF----Shelby State of Memphis, Tennessee ended the TRCC Raiders reign as champion of the TRCC Classic of Champions tournament here Saturday night 105-89.

Coach Gene Bess' Raiders had the advantage in height but Shelby State was the quicker and better shooting team on this night.

Shelby State came out in a full court press and upset the fast breaking tactics of the Raiders and TRCC began to turn over the ball and fell behind from the start and were never able to get into the ball game.

Shelby State beat the Raiders in every phase of the game. Although smaller in stature the team from Memphis showed the most hustle and out rebounded the Raiders and beat the defense down court on several occasions for the easy buckets.

TRCC was getting only one shot at the basket throughout the first half and STCC was needing only one shot as they were hitting at a very high percentage from start to finish.

5-9 Curtis Bivens was the team leader for STCC as the little guard was unstoppable as he drove up court despite the full court pressure put on by the Raiders.

Anthony Johnson, Terry Boone, Larry Risby and Paul Jenious scored in double figures for ST with Johnson and Boone hitting 26 and 22 points respectively.

The Raiders were getting scoring from only two players in the first half as Larry Marshall and Jerry Kellum were the only threats until Alvin Pierce began to find the range in the second half.

STCC jumped to a 29-19 lead and TRCC threatened only once, getting within five.

The hot shooting Memphis team led 58-48 at the half and came out shooting in the second half and their defense stopped all the Raiders except Pierce but the former Charleston Bluejay couldn't score points as fast as Shelby State and the Raiders began to fall farther behind.

STCC led 84-68 with 11 minutes left to play and led 95-78 with six minutes to play and went into a delay game.

The loss was the fourth for the Raiders against nine wins on the season.

SPEAK CLEARLY

WELLS, England (AP) — Lessons in reading the lesson in church have been started by two speech consultants appointed to the Anglican diocese of Bath and Wells. Training sessions in speaking and reading have been held for clergy and laity, who have been able to criticize their own performances with the help of a cassette recorder.

The consultants, Mrs. Brigid Somerset and Mrs. Helen Harvey, say that "nervousness and lack of confidence" affect many people, but much can be done to alleviate these problems.

Superbowl teams hope for change

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If there is one play both Minnesota and Pittsburgh would like to see next Sunday, it's a reverse.

The Vikings would like to see a reverse of their fortunes in the Super Bowl and the Steelers are hoping for a change in history.

As the teams got their first looks today at the practice facilities they'll be using as the prelude to the the National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium, both had to be thinking back a bit as well as looking ahead.

Vikings' Coach Bud Grant faces the unpleasant prospect of becoming the first coach to come out on the short end of three Super Bowls. Don Shula also lost two — one with Baltimore and one with Miami — but he also tucked away two victories.

Grant's first setback came right here five years ago, when the Kansas City Chiefs upset the Vikings 23-7. The other was qo24-7 lost to Shula's Dolphins.

The Steelers, meanwhile, have never lost an NFL championshp gfme — but that's because they have never played one. It's their first shot at all the marbles in 42 years.

And, like the Vikes, they'll be trying to alter a bit of Super Bowl history, mainly that first time entries can't cut it against teams that have been there before.

Consider that Kansas City lost its first Super Bowl game to Green Bay then beat Minnesota, and that Baltimore lost to the New York Jets, then beat Dallas ... and that Dallas then beat Miami ...and that Miami then beat Washington.

The Steelers have also found New Orleans a less than hospitable city. They've played here four times and have managed only a split, including the 28-7 victory this year.

Incidentally, a week after losing that game, the Saints ventured into Minnesota and lost again, this time by a 29-9 score. In two games in New Orleans, the Vikings have likewise achieved only a split.

Hula Bowl billed as passing game

HONOLULU (AP) — The 1974 Hula Bowl was billed as a passing game and it lived up to expectations.

Five of the nation's top collegiate quarterbacks — undaunted by strong winds and occasional rain — filled the air with 65 passes for 744 yards, more than double the total rushing yardage.

Tennessee's Condredge Holloway passed for 202 yards in leading the East to a 35-24 victory over the West in the annual college all-star contest Saturday. The 175-pound quarterback also picked up 51 yards rushing and was named player of the game.

Michigan's Dennis Franklin added 62 yards and Harvard's Milt Holt had 47 in the East attack.

"We went for a passing game because we wanted to be balanced and we had the receivers," said East Coach Bill Battle of Tennessee.

Larry Burton of Purdue caught two touchdown passes for 114 yards, while Danny Buggs of West Virginia had six receptions for 103 yards and Rick Upchurch of Minnesota had five for 48 yards.

The West relied even more on passing, gaining 429 yards in the air, compared with 131 on the ground.

Southern Cal's Pat Haden completed 12 of 19 passes, including three touchdown throws, for 288 yards. California's Steve Bartkowski added 141.

Coryell named NFL Coach of the Year

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If there are any changes in the methods of Don Coryell, they involve mainly his reappraisal of defense.

And the onetime collegiate offensive advocate, who converted the St. Louis Cardinals from losers to winners in 1974, has parlayed the reassessment into National Football League Coach of the Year honors.

"We gave up a lot of yards but very few points," observed Coryell, 50, who was chosen for The Associated Press honor by a runaway margin in votes.

"That means we were scrapping and fighting," added Coryell, whose team posted a 10-4 record and won the National Conference East title.

"We got pushed around but we were tough. If I had to pick our biggest area in improvement, it'd have to be defense just for what it allowed our offense to do."

Coryell, whose 127-24-3 record at Whittier and San Diego State was nearly unmatched in 15 collegiate seasons, inherited a Cardinal team steeped in mediocrity two years ago.

An immediate offensive renaissance geared mainly to passing ensued, but the club surrendered more than it produced and yielded 365 points in a 4-9-1 season.

"We didn't set any goals for ourselves, only to improve," reflected Coryell, whose team had a 3-4 record in exhibition before permitting 218 points in 1974.

"But the first two ball games were great games because our defense stopped both teams at the 10-yard line," he noted.

"We beat Philadelphia on four straight late incompletions, then beat the Washington Redskins with a late interception. Those two, I think, gave our team great confidence."

Following the victories, the Cardinals mowed down five more opponents and were 7-0 before flagged down 17-14 by the Dallas Cowboys.

The team also bowed the following week to National Conference champion Minnesota but recovered to win twice more and agaon on the season's final day for the title.

"I'm sure ther's no way in the world you'll find another team that would make so big a turnaround in such a short period," remarked Coryell, who called the accomplishment his greatest coaching thrill.

"It's an old cliche, of course, but I think you'll find that any winning team is not just individuals," he added.

"Individually we weren't necessarily a great team — just a very, very average team. We all realized this — all the coaches and all the players — that we needed each other to win."

Coryell, who polled 50 of 78 votes for the coaching honor. was trailed in the tabulation among sports writers and broadcasters by Houston's Sid Gillman, who had 12.

Behind the two were Buffalo's Lou Saban, New England's Chuck Fairbanks and Oakland's John Madden. Chuck Knox of Los Angeles won the honor in 1973.

"We accomplished so much more than we ever dreamed we would," Coryell acknowledged. "This is an award to the Cardinal organization, not to me as an individual."

Astros' pitcher found dead; at autopsy report scheduled

HOUSTON (AP) — Autopsy reports were expected today on the bodies of Houston Astros' pitcher Don Wilson and his 5-year-old son, Alexander, both found in their carbon monoxide-filled home Sunday.

Wilson, 29, preparing to start his 10th season with the Astros, was found slumped over in his car in the attached garage of his fashionable home in the city's southwest section.

Young Alexander was found in a bedroom above the garage. Mrs. Wilson was listed in fair condition at a hospital with injuries that included a broken left jaw.

The Wilson's 9-year-old daughter, Denise, was in critical condition at a hospital and remained in a coma late Sunday night.

The tragedy started unfolding early Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Wilson phoned the fire department.

Fire department ambulance service spokesman Jack MacGillis said a woman called saying she could not wake up her children and her husband was in the car. He said the call came in at 1:24 p.m., CST.

Juvenile officer T.R. Trinkle said he talked to Mrs. Wilson at the hospital but she was under sedation.

He quoted her as saying she awoke after hearing a car motor running and went to check on the children.

She said the children "sounded like they were crying in their sleep."

Trinkle quoted her as saying she picked up the boy and took him to the master bedroom and shut the doors to both the daughter's bedroom and the master bedroom. She said she could not go back to sleep because the car motor was still running so she went to check and found her husband.

She said she called a registered nurse friend who told her to check for a pulse.

She said she did not know how she suffered the broken jaw.

The news sent gloom throughout the Astros' organization.

"It was a terrible shock," Astros' General Manager Spec Richardson said. "The whole organization is very sorry over this tragedy."

Bernie defeats Richland 68-58

BERNIE — It was a rough and tumble affair Friday night at the Bernie gym as the host Mules recorded their fifth win out of their last six outings by stunning Richland 68-58. Bernie, playing without their leading scorer Kevin Sides, still managed to build a five point lead at halftime 28-23 as the Rebels went cold turkey from the field. Richland's talented Steve McAnulty got into early foul trouble and had to sit out most of the game which didn't help RHS any either. Led by Stacy Dunn's game-high 20 points, Bernie moved to nine point lead at the end of three quarters. The Rebels came out in the fourth period with a bang, but it wss too often followed by the referee's whistle as the Mules sank free throw after throw to build a 16-point bulge early in the quarter. Richland actually outshot Bernie from the field 26 to 22, but a 24 to 6 Bernie advantage from the charity stripe was more than the Mules needed. Bernie started substituting freely midway thru the final frame to make the affair seem closer than it actually was.

BHS made it a twin-kill on the night as the JV Mules earlier had slipped a 48 to 45 win past the Rebel JV.

Today in U. S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, January sixth, the sixth day of 1975. There are 359 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1412, the French national heroine, Joan of Arc, was born.

On this date —

In 1540, King Henry the Eighth of England married his fourth wife, Anne of Cleves.

In 1759, George Washington was married to the widow, Martha Dandridge Custis.

In 1838, Samuel F.B. Morse made the first public demonstration of his telegraph, at Morristown, New Jersey.

In 1912, New Mexico became the 47th state.

In 1919, former President Theodore Roosevelt died at his Oyster Bay, New York home.

In 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt defined the American goal of "Four Freedoms" — freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Ten years ago: A U-S Air Force F-111 demonstrated its ability to fold back its wings during a test flight at Fort Worth, Texas.

Five years ago: White students generally stayed away from desegregated schools in Mississippi as more of the schools opened under Federal court integration orders.

One year ago: Troops, tanks and armored cars guarded London's Heathrow Airport after reports that Arab terrorists planned to shoot down airliners with surface-to-air missiles.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Danny Thomas is 61 years old. Actress Loretta Young is 62. Pollster Louis Harris is 54.

Thought for today: A bad man is worse when he pretends to be a saint — Francis Bacon, English philosopher and writer, 1561-1626.

-UTTAS Flies-

FLIGHT TEST SUCCESSFUL — Sikorsky Aircraft's new twin turbine powered UTTAS (Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System) makes its first flight "over the fence" (away from the flight field). The YUH-60A UTTAS is one of two advanced technology prototype helicopters being developed for the U.S. Army. Boeing Vertol Company's UTTAS entry is expected to be flight tested this November. The UTTAS is designed to serve as the Army's primary utility transport helicopter of the 1980's. (Photo courtesy of Sikorsky Aircraft) (ANF)

Meeting— In addition to learning their new engineer skills at Fort Belvoir, Va., student representatives meet with school brigade cadre regularly to discuss current or potential race relations/equal opportunity problems. From left, at the 1st Battalion, U.S. Army Engineer School Brigade meeting are: Second Lt. Leroy Davis, Washington, D.C.; Pfc Carol Kurowski, Hollywood, Fla.; Pvt. Cynthia A. Murphy, Niles, Mich.; Sgt. James Guzman, Guam; and Second Lt. Gary Musgrave, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DOESN'T HURT A BIT! Smiling young citizen gets his blood pressure checked by Heart Association volunteer in Marin County, California. More than 23 million Americans have high blood pressure, which greatly increases the risk of stroke, heart attack and kidney failure. A "silent" disease that has no special symptoms, high blood pressure is easily detected and usually controllable, according to the American Heart Association. Untreated, high blood pressure will contribute to more than 500,000 deaths in 1975.

BOEING VERTOL UTTAS ENTRY FLIES — The new twin turbine powered UTTAS (Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System) makes its first flight at Long Island, New York. The YUH-61A UTTAS is one of two advanced technology prototype helicopters currently under development for the U.S. Army. The Sikorsky Aircraft's entry is also undergoing flight testing. The UTTAS is designed as the Army's utility transport helicopter of the 1980's. (Photo courtesy of Boeing Vertol)

A Way of Life

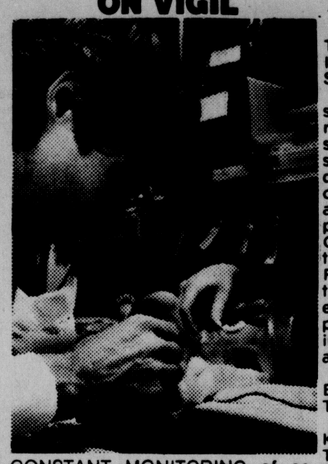

Volunteer work is a traditional part of the American way of life. Three women who share a concern for improving health services for mothers and infants are among the "stars" of a new March of Dimes educational film called "A Way of Life." Lullelia Harrison (right), a counselor in the Houston school system, also is Texas volunteer advisor for the March of Dimes, and volunteer National Projects Director of Zeta Phi Beta sorority. She has traveled around the nation during the past 2 years helping Zeta chapters set up "Stork's Nests," where women who attend prenatal care clinics can get maternity wear, infant clothes, and other baby needs. Charlotte Wilen (bottom right) is described by Georgia's Gov. Jimmy Carter as "that 96-pound dynamo who may be a one-woman answer to the energy crisis." Ms. Wilen founded BIB (Better Infant Births) to bring better prenatal care and education to Atlanta. She also served as founding chairman of the state's new Council on Maternal and Infant Health. Emi Fenenbock (lower left), former chapter chairman of the Los Angeles March of Dimes, began the annual Children's Art Show for youngsters with birth defects. Their paintings are displayed at a bank, then reproduced as Christmas cards.

ON VIGIL

GRANDMOM Dawn, long-necked resident of the Brookfield, Ill., Zoo, plants a kiss on Ann, her granddaughter, who, at only two-weeks old, weighs 200 pounds and stands 6 feet tall. Ann has a lot of growing to do before she catches up with 13-year-old Dawn, though.

away. Sightings from that distance are not common, but do happen.

Visitors are welcome in the refuges. Certain roads and sections are marked as not open to the public, but the open areas should provide a good chance at seeing a distant eagle.

With the best of luck and a good set of binoculars early on a cold morning you may get to see a bald eagle. You will need to drive slowly and carefully watch the trees, especially near water, but when you do see the flash of white from the sun shining on the head of this great bird, you will know why he was chosen and is protected as the symbol of this country.

Group opposes new state law

The Missouri State Assessor's Association has announced its opposition to a new state law which raises the assesment of personal property taxes from 30 per cent of its value to 33 and one third per cent of its value.

The law, which went into effect Dec. 31, will increase property taxes by about 11 per cent. The increase will appear on the 1975 tax bills.

The association said the law becomes effective at an inappropriate time due to inflation and recession. The law was passed two years ago when the economic conditions were better in the state, the association says.

Two bills have been prefiled in the state legislature which would cut the tax back to 30 per cent. The association is urging taxpayers to support the cut and is urging Gov. Christopher Bond to consider the possibility of issuing an executive order or take other action to delay or stop the tax increase.

OBERLIN DEDICATES $200,000 ORGAN

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — The Oberlin College Conservatory of Music has dedicated a new $200,000 organ. Marie-Claire Alain, French organist, played a recital and E. Power Biggs, American organist, received an honorary doctor of music degree.

The installation of the organ has been in progress since its arrival from the Netherlands in August. It was designed and built by Dirk A. Flentrop.

The organ contains 4,000 pipes, weighs nine tons, stands 25 feet high and is 18 feet wide. It is constructed in modified Baroque style, with colors red, blue and gold. The organ is a 44-stop mechanical action instrument and is the largest of its kind at an educational institution in the United States.

It was commissioned by the family of Frank C. and Grace Langeland Van Cleef, in memory of George Whitfield Andrews, a student and later faculty member at Oberlin from 1870 to 1931.

Doctor continues extradition fight

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) — Dr. Norman Garrison Jr., continued his fight today against proceedings that would return him to Missouri to face murder charges in the shooting death of his ex-wife.

A Marshall County Circuit Court hearing was set for today in the case.

Garrison, a Corinth physician, has been charged with murder in the Sept. 8 shooting of Lee Ann Garrison in her Kennett, Mo., home.

Garrison maintains he has witnesses who will swear he was on Pickwick Lake in northeastern Mississippi when the shooting occurred in the southeast Missouri town.

Gov. Bill Waller signed papers for Garrison's return to Missouri after he received assurances that the doctor would be released on bond pending his trial, but Garrison is fighting extradition.

Judge W. W. Brown last month delayed a hearing on the extradition warrant at the request of Missouri officials who said they wanted more time to gather their witnesses.

Holbert Goodman, a 42-year-old Missouri ex-convict, is expected to take the stand to give testimony about a gun confiscated from him following a recent armed robbery in Tennessee.

The gun is believed by Garrison's attorneys to be the one used to slay Mrs. Garrison.

Goodman was arrested in Somerville, Tenn., about 75 miles from Corinth. On the night of Goodman's arrest, two men reportedly were in Corinth trying to bribe a pair of cab drivers to steal personal items from Dr. Garrison's home.

Arrest records show Goodman was released from the Missouri State Penitentiary last October after serving seven years for armed robbery in Dunklin County. Upon his release from prison, Goodman moved to Parma, Mo.

4 arrested for Jan. 1 burglary

CHARLESTON — Donnie Joe O'Dell, 24 of Sikeston and Wendell David Britt, 28, and Gary Dowdy, 19, of East Prairie have been charged with burglary and stealing and are being held in Mississippi County jail under $5,000 bond each, according to Deputy Sheriff Norris Grissom.

A 16-year-old East Prairie youth was also arrested on the same charges and turned over to juvenile authorities.

Charges against the four are in connection with the Jan. 1. break-in at Ditto's Shell Service Station in East Prairie. Six tires, 10 cartons of cigarettes, 17 pairs of gloves, a fence lock, flashlight and an automobile stereo with speakers were stolen.

Britt, Dowdy and the juvenile were arrested Saturday in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie. O'Dell was arrested Saturday in Sikeston by Scott County Deputy Gerald Inman, accompannied by Grissom and Ivie.

The three men will be arraigned Thursday in Magistrate Court

Thieves hit autos over weekend

Thieves entered two automobiles and a service station over the weekend, according to police.

Billy Joe Williams of Blodgett, told police someone took a tape player valued at $100 and a tape worth $4 from his car while it was parked at 621 Dempster. The theft occurred between, 6:20 p.m. Jan. 3 and 9:45 a.m. Jan. 4.

A purse and four stereo tapes were taken from a car owned by Kenneth Pinkerton, 202 Woodlawn, between 8:40 p.m. and 9:08 p.m. Saturday, while the car was parked at the home.

Pinkerton said he and Kay Stallings, 310 S. First St., went into the home for about 15 minutes and when they came out the items were taken.

Pinkerton said the tapes were valued at $20. The Stallings woman said the purse contained $20.

Burglars broke into the Uptown Shell service station, 131 S. Kingshighway, between 4 a.m. and 4:55 a.m. Saturday, and took $20 from the cash register. The burglar got into the building by breaking out a window in the front, by a door.

Police said today an inventory of the burglary of Proffers Bi-Rite, 1501 E. Malone Ave., showed that $350 in cash was taken, along with several cartons of cigarettes, two cases of beer and some cigarette lighters. The burglary occurred Jan. 2.

Inflation-Recession Conference planned

Key leaders in the six Bootheel counties are receiving invitations to an inflation-recession conference scheduled Jan. 23 at the Holiday Inn, Highway 61 South.

The program is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Missouri.

The primary objective of the conference is to help leaders gain a better understanding of key national issues facing the country and what must be done to solve the nation's problems.

Guest speakers from the University of Missouri will include four Department of Agricultural Economics faculty members, Harold Breimeyer, Joseph C. Meisner, Coy G. McNabb and Thomas G. Brown.

The conference will begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. and will include a Dutch treat luncheon.

Missing teens returned

CHARLESTON — Three East Prairie juveniles, a 15-year-old boy and two girls, ages 14 and 16, missing from their homes since Dec. 31, were picked up Sunday in Carlinville, Ill., according to Juvenile Officer Gorden Galemore, who said they had been returned to Mississippi County.

Charges of car theft may be filed against the three, who reportedly stole a car late Dec. 31 in Sikeston. The car owned by Wilma Baldwin of Sikeston was abandoned in a wooded area near Greenville.

Dorena grocery burns

DORENA — The R. H. Williams Grocery, built in 1938, was destroyed by fire about 5 a.m. Saturday.

The fire of undetermined origin began in the store and spread to the living quarters at the rear of the building, occupied by Mrs. Williams, her sister and a nephew.

Some household furnishings and a few articles of clothing were salvaged by neighbors.

Firemen from East Prairie responded to the call, but the frame building was engulfed in flames when they arrived.

Search for the eagles

By TIM LUDWIG

The National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D. C. recently announced the acquisition of land in South Dakota and Nebraska for use as a sanctuary for the bald eagle, the national symbol of the United States.

The 1,000 acres are located along the Missouri River near Pickstown, S.D. and have been designated by Rogers Morton, secretary of the interior, as a National Wildlife Refuge.

The land was purchawed by a unique "Save a Living Thing" fund raising campaign by the combined National Wildlife Federation and a national food store chain. The stores donated one cent from the sale of each bottle of a soft drink sold in all of the stores. The campaign raised more than $200,000 toward the purchase.

The bald eagle, while uncommon and not easy to spot, is no stranger to the Sikeston area. Several ranges, all within about an hour's drive of town, support winter populations of the huge bird. Three of the largest groups may be seen on a lucky day at Duck Creek and Mingo Wildlife Refuge near Puxico, Horsehoe Lake, about 10 miles north of Cairo, Ill., and at Union County Wildlife Refuge near Ware, Ill.

Officials at the three areas estimate the total number of birds at the refuges now at about 30 for Duck Creekand Mingo, about 50 or more at Horsehoe Lake and about 12 at Union County.

All three refuges contain large areas of water to support the birds' normal diet of fish. They also contain vast numbers of geese and other water fowl in the area for winter.

Problems in finding the eagles start with the water. The birds are usually seen perched near the tops of very tall trees hundreds of yards away in the middle of a lake. The adults are not hard to identify because of the flashing white-feathered head and tail, but the juveniles (up to four years old) may look at that distance like some of the more common hawks that are also found at these areas. The young eagles are almost uniformly brown in color and only their size of nearly three feet tall with a seven foot wing-span distinguishes them.

The bald eagle is a solitary bird in its winter ranges near here. It is suspicious of the upright figure of a human and not fond of fast noisy cars, so it is seldom seen near roads through the refuges. The best times to see the birds seem to be very early in the morning or near dusk when they may be closer to road areas and are likely to be active.

Eagles winter near Bootheel

10 persons injured in weekend accidents

A 14-year-old pedestrian was critically injured and nine persons received lesser injuries in six area traffic accidents over the weekend, according to the highway patrol.

Amlee Summers of Zalma Route One received critical injuries at 2:15 p.m. Saturday when struck by a car one and a half miles south of Clarkton on Highway 25.

According to the patrol, Miss Summers started across the highway and ran into the right side of a southbound car driven by Mardia Ree Jones, 39, of Clarkton.

She was taken to Dunklin County Memorial Hospital in Kennett.

A Bertrand youth was seriously injured in a one-car accident at 1:10 a.m. Saturday on Highway 77 two miles east of Benton.

The accident occurred when a southbound car driven by Terry Ramsy Cole, 19, ran off the road, struck two driveway culverts and overturned several times. Cole was thrown from the vehicle.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston, from where he was later transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

A Sikeston woman was moderately injured and four Sullivan residents received minor injuries in a traffic accident at 9:20 p.m. Sunday on Highway 62 in Miner.

The woman received moderate injuries and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital, then transferred to Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Treated at Missouri Delta Community Hospital for minor injuries were four passengers in the Paul vehicle, Jean Paul, 35, Christina Paul, 12, Juliana Paul, 9, and Johnna Paul, 6.

A one-vehicle accident on Interstate 55 at 6:30 a.m. Saturday half a mile north of Steele resulted in minor injuries to the driver.

The accident occurred when a northbound van driven by Ina Culbertson, 20, of St. Louis swerved to avoid another vehicle partially on the pavement, then ran off the road and overturned.

She was taken to Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti for treatment of minor injuries.

Congress to proceed with CIA probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders say their planned investigations into the CIA's alleged domestic intelligence work will proceed even though President Ford has appointed an eight-man commission to probe the spy agency.

Ford named Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller to head the commission Sunday which was created to "determine whether the CIA has exceeded its statutory authority." The agency, which is limited by law to foreign intelligence, allegedly has spied on Americans in the United States.

The panel is to report in 90 days. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the report would be sent to Congress and released to the public.

The other commissioners appointed by Ford were former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, retired Army Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, former Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Joseph Lane Kirkland, retired University of Virginia President Edgar F. Shannon, former Commerce Secretary John T. Connor and former Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott praised the commission members as "distinguished men without personal axes to grind" and as "men of great national reputation."

But Scott said it was necessary for the congressional inquiries to go ahead. CIA investigations previously were announced by Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House CIA oversight committee; Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate CIA oversight panel; and Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., incoming chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Nedzi, vowing to continue his panel's probe, welcomed the appointment of the presidential commission and said he would appreciate any insights the commission may offer "into the problem of reconciling a secret agency with an open society."

The House CIA subcomnittee will meet next week to map its investigation. Nedzi said he will urge that the panel's work be done in public.

Neither Stennis nor Sparkman was immediately available for comment.

Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., who conducted his own personal inquiry into the CIA's links with the Watergate scandal, commended Ford for creating the commission. Baker added that the commission did not reduce the need for independent congressional action.

The make-up of the commission came under some criticism. One lawmaker, who asked not to be identified, said the close personal relationship between Rockefeller and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger made it a "self investigation."

Kissinger also serves as head of the National Security Council, which is directly responsible for the CIA. Kissinger is known to have urged Ford to create such a commission.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the panel was "very one-sided."

Time grows short for interest hike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The final act in the legislature's attempt to hike the state's 8 per cent interest ceiling opens today as a third compromise measure goes to the Senate for debate.

Both the House and the Senate will have only two days to reach a final decision on the bill, the major reason Gov. Christopher S. Bond called the special session, since the regular session of the new 78th General Assembly officially begins at noon Wednesday.

The bill, the third effort to merge House and Senate proposals since the session began Nov. 19, had been passed by the Senate in a similar form before the holiday recess and no major opposition is expected during discussion of the bill today.

But a combine of rural and urban legislators in the House are expected to continue their fight against the proposal when that chamber gets back to work this afternoon, some on the grounds that there is no need for any boost at all and others based on opposition to so-called points, or a percentage of a loan paid at the time it is secured.

The debate on the bill resumed only a few days after two federal government institutions announced reductions in interest rates for home buyers, one for the eighth straight time.

The bill, which was sent to a joint conference committee Dec. 19 for technical modications that backers hope will increase rural support for its passage, boosts the interest ceiling on home and all agricultural loans from 8 per cent, among the lowest in the nation, to 10 per cent.

It would allow a maximum charge of two points on home loans and permit a prepayment penalty charge if the loan is paid off during the first five years.

The compromise version exempts from any limit corporate loans, business and other loans secured by bonds or similar collateral over $5,000 and nonresidential or nonagricultural real estate loans.

Urban redevelopment corporations would be able to pay 10 per cent interest on the bonds they issue instead of the current 6 per cent and violations of the new law would be a misdemeanor.

The legal charges would go into effect immediately upon the signature of the governor if two-thirds of each house approves of that emergency provision.

"I think it has a better than 50-50 chance of passing," said House Minotiry Leader Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood, although several GOP representatives cast votes during action on the bill last month that indicated they opposed the measure, which is supported by Bond.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Stupid mistakes are always made by others ... we only make unavoidable errors.

A SECRET DEAL?

Did Secretary of State Henry Kissinger enter into a secret "deal" with the Soviets whereby the United States would silence "Voice of America" broadcasts which might tend to curtail Soviet ambitions in Spain, Latin America, and the Caribbean?

What else can explain the reason why, while the Communists are increasing their radio propaganda programs beamed from Havana, Peking, Moscow and Prague, the USA has cancelled hours and whole programs formerly broadcast toArgentineans, Brazilians, Spaniards, Cubans, Mexicans,Colombians, Chileans, Bolivians, Panamanians, Costa Ricans, Uruguayans,Venezuelans, Guatemalans and others?

On Saturday, December 6, "Voice of America" abruptly discontinued their program, "A Date with Cuba." It has been on the air for 14 years, and it was the only dependable source of news for the Cuban people opposing Castro.

Director of "Voice of America" James Keogh further announced that programs presenting excerpts from The Gulag Archipelago by Nobel Prize winner Alexander Solzhenitsyn to the radio-listeners in Latin America would also be discontinued. Naturally the Reds are not happy with The Gulag Archipelago. It is a formidalbe indictment of Soviet tyranny, terror and torture.

Our State Department policy apparently dictates that while the Communists are free to broadcast any amount of criticism against the United States and the free world, when it comes to telling the truth about Communism we are to keep our mouths shut.

If that, indeed, is State Department policy — and we have heard no denials as yet -- then it is time for President Ford to start looking around for a replacement for our Secretary of State. The Communists must not be allowed to dictate what we say or do not say on the "Voice of America." ___

If all the houses are painted the same color, it's a project, if they're different, it's a private development.

It seems that Congress has voted for an oversupply of lawyers by passing the program -- CLEO (Council on Legal Educational Opportunity) - which provides scholarships for more people to become lawyers. The U.S. Department of Labor reported that the record number of law-school graduates last June is almost twice as many needed annually to fill legal job openings (30,075 passed bar examinations; only 16,500 legal jobs are expected to be open each year).

One of the people who actually oversees the CLEO program is Chesterfield Smith, liberal past president of the American Bar Association, who "estimates there will be twice as many lawyers by 1985 as there are today." While he "doubts the present American legal system can profitably employ them all, a changed system which would enable anyone who needs a lawyer to afford one, would create a need for ev en m ore lawyers."

Undoubtedly one reason why Smith backs such schemes as the $100-million-per-year Legal Services Corporation plan is to expand a nationwide network of job opportunities for government subsidized lawyers, many of them CLEO graduates.

It's your tax money they're spending, you know.

A Sikeston merchant complimented one of his clerks, and the next day the clerk asked for an increase in wages.

We don't know what prompted the editor of a nearby newspaper to write this plea: "...To save the editor from starvation, take his paper and pay for it promptly. To save him from bankruptcy, advertise in his paper regularly. To save him from despair and overwork of his imaginative faculties, send him every item of news you can get hold of. To save him from profanity, write your correspondence p lainly on one side of the sheet and send it in promptly. To save him from taking on the misanthropic looks of a pug dog, give him words of encouragement when he publishes something good. To save him from mistakes, bury him for dead people are the only ones who do not make mistakes."

Irritating, isn't it? To see trucks, out-of-state cars and American sports model cars speeding by you at 60-plus mph?

One businessman to another: "I wanted my son to share in the business, but the government beat him to it."

"The current increase in small car use 'will lead to a greater number of injuries, 'including fatal and crippling injuries, a University of Michigan research group has warned, '" notes a publication of the Automobile Club of Oregon. The article continues, "The group based its conclusion on an extensive analysis of crash injury data from national and local crash investigation files. Its analysis showed, it said, that the following rule should be applied to new car in crashes: '... once involved in an accident, the chance of injury in this car increases at the rate of about 2.5 per per cent for each decrease of 100 pounds in vehicle weight.' The analysis also indicated that smaller cars are involved in single vehicle crashes at a significantly higher rate than larger cars, and in other crashes at about the same rate as larger cars ... the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles and the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (finds) that occupants of compact and smaller size cars are substantially more vulnerable to death and serious injury in crashes than occupants of sedan and larger size cars."

TURN OVER A NEW LEAF, CONGRESS

A new President and a new Congress will be starting a new year in another week. We fear there' ll be a lot of plans to spend more foreign aid, spend more civic aid to fight depression, increase te amount of benefits to those independent, fearless people who go on strike and deprive the remainder of us the way of life we have won by working long hours for anything we could get to keep on living. One Senator has declared he will not run again because Congress has no desire to live within its means. Wouldn't it be a great thing if all Congressmen would either resign or declare they would quit spending and start trying to pay what we owe. We know, of course, that our debt will never be paid in our lifetime.

NEW CAMPAIGN REGULATIONS AFFECT ALL POLITICAL GROUPS

This information may further add to your confusion since President Ford reluctantly signed into law the far-reaching campaign reforms. This legislation affects every political organization in the country and for the first time gets the federal government into the business of financing Presidential campaigns and nominating conventions. It is this part of the law in particular that some of us had serious reservations. This type of raid on the U.S. Treasury is especially questicnable when Congress should be doing everything within its power to cut, not increase federal spending. Taxpayer financing, even on a limited basis, could destabilize the two-party system and allow third party movements emerging during a period of political crisis to become permanent fixtures.

For the present, at least, Congress stopped short of imposing this public financing chaos on Congressional elections. However, the Democrats in majority did work their will by setting low spending limits which clearly favor incumbents.

On the positive side, the new law creates a full-time independent election commission with civil enforcement power over all federal election laws. This bipartisan commission will set regulations, receive campaign reports, and initiate court actions to obtain injunctive relief and declaratory judgments.

Another provision in the new law is that it clealy establishes national and state committees of a political party as separate and distinct from special interest groups. As such, they will have the right to expend funds above and beyond the limits the new law imposes on all federal candidates.

Limitations on contributions:

1. No individual may contribute more than $1,000 to a candidate for federal office in any primary, run-off and general election ($3,000 potential). In addition, during a calendar year no individual may contribute more than $25,000 in total to political committees covered by federal law.

2. No political committee and-or special interest group may contribute more than $5,000 to a candidate for federal office in any primary, run-off and general election (15,000 potential).

3. A candidate and his family may contribute to his own race an amount up to $50,000 for Presidential election, $35,000 for the Senate and $25,000 for the House.

4. Cash contributions may not exceed $100, and foreign nationals may not make contributions.

Limitation on expenditures:

1. $10 million total for Presidential campaigns through the convention.

2. $20 million in the Presidential general election.

3. The greater of $100,000 or eight cents times the voting age population (VAP) in Senate primray elections.

4. The greater of $150,000 or twelve cents times the VAP in Senate general elections.

5. $70,000 in primary and general House elections.

6. Each candidate is allowed a 20 per cent exemption for fund raising cost.

7. The new law specifically allows the following kinds of expenditures to be made above and beyond the limits stated above:

(A) The national and state committees of a political party can each spend $10,000 in each House election and two cents times the VAP in Senate elections.

(B) Any individual citizen may on his own initiaitiative spend up to $1,000 on any campaign he or she chooses. However, if such expenditures exceed $100 within a calendar year the individual must file a disclosure statement with the Commission.

Some other major points:

Corporations and labor organizations are now allowed to maintain separate, segregated funds to be utilized for political purposes so long as contributions to such funds are voluntary.

The limitations on expenditures for use of communications media are repealed.

Add to the lexicon of lament inspired by inflation and the energy crisis the term "regulatory lag."

This is the delay or gap between the date that a utility files an application for a rate chance and the date that the change is approved by a state's public utility commission. The gap, according to a survey of 31 states just completed by Electrical World magazine, averages nine months to a year.

In Arizona, however, one case began in 1970 and wasn't decided until 404 days later, in 1972. In Ohio, one application has been pending since May, 1972. Hearings began only in February of this year.

Hit by rising costs like everybody else, the nation's utilities are increasingly citing the problem of "regulatory lag" as a key element in the troubles they are having raising investment capital.

Most consumers, of course, are just as happy to see an increase in their electric or gas bills postponed as long as possible. But according to one electric utility spokesman, Alvan W. Vogtle Jr., president of The Southern Company, the real victims of regulatory lag are consumers, more than the utilities.

Unduly long delay means deteriorating service and a cutback in construction of new generating facilities, he points out. Thus it is the consumer who finds his future energy needs unmet who will suffer in the end.

All the while, Vogtle adds, inflation — particularly the "double-digit" inflation the country is currently experiencing — adds to operating expenses. Thus when a rate increase does become effective, utilities are already at the point where the additional revenues are not enough.

This has given rise to a phenemenon called "pancaking." This occurs — and it is occurring more and more frequently — when a utility finds it necessary to apply for another general rate increase even before a previous application has been processed.

As a result, the regulatory commissions in some states are being swamped by pyramiding paperwork. As a result, not only is there administrative chaos but uncertainty about the utilities' real needs in the minds of consumers, who inevitably feel that they are the ones being "pancaked."

Understaffing is, in fact, cited as the chief cause of regulatory lag in the first place. In Pennsylvania, for example, the number of specialists on the public utility commission has remained unchanged while the number of rate cases has tripled in the past four or five years.

Fortunately, the states are beginning to attack the problem, either by hiring additional staff, granting interim relief, imposing time limits or all of these.

In Nevada, there is a statutory 180-day period to process rate applications, after which requests are automatically in force. Ken Kentucky a statutory limit of 10 months to process applications is in effect. In Delaware, a utility can collect a higher rate 60 days after filing application and hold the additional revenues in bond until a decision is reached.

There wouldn't be this problem if gas or electric or telephone service could be sold on the open market where competition would establish the going rate. It is because of the nature of the products or services they provide that the nation's utilities must be monopolies, albeit legal, regulated ones.

But even though the utilities are regulated by the states on behalf of the public, anyone who thinks that a rate increase postponed is a rate increase that will never happen is only kidding himself.

COMMISSION SAYS FIRE LOSSES CAUSED BY PUBLIC INDIFFERENCE

Within a single typical hour, an average 300 fires will rage somewhere in the U.S., according to a report issued last year by the National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control.

These blazes will kill an average of one person, injuring an additional 34 and destroying more than $300,000 worth of property, the report reveals.

Public indifference and ignorance keep the flames fanned, the commission reports. To curb these alarming statistics, it suggests families make a checklist of ways to eliminate fire hazards from the home; conduct a "rehearsal" of steps to be taken in case of fire; and install fire extinguishers, escape ladders and early-warning fire detectors that sound an alarm when activated by excessive heat or smoke.

Since 80 per cent of home fires resulting in death or injury occur between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. when people are asleep, the majority of victims die from inhaling poisonous fumes before the flames ever reach them. Thus, if victims are awakened to the presence of fire in its early stages, many lives can be saved, the commission points out.

Among specific safety guidelines offered by the commission are the following fire prevention suggestions:

. Never leave small children at home unattended. Make sure matches, lighters, flames, and spark sources are out of their reach.

. Never smoke in bed. Thoroughly extinguish all cigarette butts, cigar and pipe ashes before disposing of them in a garbage container.

. Have all furnaces, water heaters, stoves, ovens and smokepipes inspected annually. Learn how to take proper care of these systems throughout the year.

Should fire break out, the commission recommends the following actions:

. Never open a door if it feels hot or if smoke is seeping in around the edges. A closed door will help keep the fire and poisonous smoke contained.

. Never run through a smoke-filled area to escape. Crawl low on the floor, and if possible, hold a damp cloth over your mouth and nose.

. If trapped in a room, open slightly a window furthest from the door and put your face to the opening to breathe.

DANGEROUS ATTITUDE

Nine times out of ten, when an energy industry spokesman talks about the energy problem, the old viewpoint is taken that he has an ax to grind -- that he is talking for the benefit of his industry alone. As an industry spokesman, he has two strikes against him before he opens his mouth. This antediluvian attitude is a luxury the country can no longer afford.

The menace of this is well-demonstrated in Callifornia, a state that for as long as most of us can remember has been the fastest growing area in the nation. Had it not been for California's farsighted, progressive utility industry, that state would be confronted with an energy crisis. Twenty years ago, the electric companies of the region saw the handwriting on the wall in the form of diminishing fuel supplies. The first commercially-licensed nuclear power plant went into operation in California in 1957. If siting problems and safety questions can be settled, the state's best hope for meeting power needs in the next two decades lies in development of nuclear power plants along the coast where it has been proven that sea water can be used for cooling purposes without harming marine life. The claim has been made that California's coastline is threatened with a "picket fence" of nuclear power plants. This is the type of myth with which the utility industry must contend. The chairman of the board of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, one of the most articulate pleaders for public "understanding" of the energy issue, has time and again sought to put the picket fence myth at rest. He says a 1970 state study indicates that nine nuclear power plant sites along the coast should be developed. The development would run through the year 2000, and the plants would occupy coastal frontage amounting to about six miles -- or eight tenths of one per cent of the 725 miles of coastline in this company's service territory.

In pointing out these facts, this utility executive speaks in behalf of the future of the people of California. He concludes, "Remember that energy is needed to create new jobs ... for every job-holder in California who will reach normal retirement age during this decade, two young people will enter the job market. Jobs for them all will require more electric energy." If people wish to eat and live in the years ahead, they must begin to recognize and act on the fact that energy is the basis of life itself.

Inside Labor

Victor Riesel

Labor in 1975: Union Chiefs' Strategy Calls for Prodding Congress Into Heavy Rooseveltian Era Spending

WASHINGTON — Jerry Ford would do well to roll the wagons into a circle around the Oval Office. He's being stalked by the labor chiefs, slowly, and politely but steadily, almost unnoticeably.

For example, most of those personally invited by the White House to come over and witness the signing of the trade snubbed him and it.

That's a smoke signal of the labor "movement's" strategy for 1975. The attack will mount slowly on the industrial, legislative and political fronts. The first major assault will come during the AFL-CIO's own mini-convention here at the Statler Hilton Jan. 23 — right after the President's speech on the state of his own union.

After that labor, literally and figuratively, will march up the Hill to pressure Congress as it has never before been prodded since George Washington rejected the crown.

This is political realism. This will be the exertion of political power in its most scientific essentials. This is the moment for which labor chief George Meany and his colleagues have built their smoothly purring (growing actually) political movement which is a party in all but name. Not in Meany's lifetime will there be a national "Labor Party," but he did tell an interviewer recently:

"I may be bragging and if I am I'm going to brag. We have a better machine than the Republican National Committee and the Democratic National Committee. And I say that advisedly."

And the national labor leaders now feel they have more power in Congress than ever before in its history. They believe that they can "prod" the Congress into passing virtually all labor's economic proposals — and that President Ford can veto and veto but that he will be roughly overriden on the Hill.

What does labor want to prod out of Congress to prevent what it calls "ecoonomic disaster"?

The list is long. Basically labor wants more and heavier federal spending. But most of all it wants a rollback in money-lending prime interest rates. Say to 6 per cent annually.

They argue that the high interest rates virtually alone unleashed the recession. They say it now costs the federal government $10 billion more in interest payments a year to operate. They reckon this alone has dried up funds for massiv projects, created a "disaster area" in the construction field and unsettled the utilities harassed by high fuel rates.

Labor wants allocation of credit. The President has had such power since 1969. They want money poured into practical projects, into residential building, utility construction, dams, airports, schools, etc. And "not into luxurious seaside condominiums."

They want the freeing of billions of dollars for capital construction, mass transportation, etc., money allocated but frozen by the White House for several years now.

They want a tax cut in "the middle income and lower brackets," federalization of unemployment insurance, and a broad National Health Insurance Act.

They will demand the spending of billions on massive works in the tradition of the late Sens. Robert Lafollette and George Norris, the left of center in the '20s and '30s, the protagonists of vast dams and similar huge federal works such as the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Discussing these men with a television interviewer recently Meany half seriously, half sarcastically, said "Perhaps we need some 'socialistic' ideas to get us out of this dilemma that we are in."

In this prodding of Congress into a Rooseveltian - era spending policy, Meany and the AFL-CIO are not alone. Working closely with them are Leonard Woodcock's United Auto Workers and Arnold Miller's United Mine Workers. These men consult regularly — and that includes private discussions with Teamsters President Frank Fitzsimmons on policies to push when they eyeball it with Jerry Ford during the Labor-Management Committee sessions.

Together they are an ultra-powerful political combine. And the word is "together." Some political observers interpreted the Democratic Kansas City mini-convention as an "AFL-CIO-COPE" defeat. It wasn't. The anti-quota bloc lost. There was no labor split. On the socio-economic front there is almost all-pervading unity.

The Committee on Political Education already is deep in politics, the nitty-gritty kind. Preparing to elect mayors and city councils, pressuring state legislatures as well as setting up for the 1976 political Super Bowl.

There will be a series of private skull sessions of labor's most active political leaders to assay labor's political solidarity and avoid open conflict between the quota and non-quota forces. An COPE's director Al Barkan will be all over the place with his fundamentalist podium pounding on the evils of all but the working class.

Perhaps forming the wagons into a circle won't be enough — Jerry Ford should have a storm shelter handy where he can study labor's 1968 anti-Nixon literature.

Washington-Merry-Go-Round

Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: More on the Klassen Corps

WASHINGTON — In past columns, we have reported on the cozy relationship that exists between the postal authorities who dish out the taxpayers' money and the postal contractors who rake it in.

Here's the latest example we have uncovered — a juicy, $7.1 million deal:

It began three years ago with a scheme to sell commemorative stamp books to generate revenue. This became a pet project of Postmaster General Ted Klassen and then Asst. Postmaster General Ben Bailar.

They awarded a $500,000 contract to the Scott Publishing Co. to handle the project. No other bids were solicited; the contract simply was bequeathed to the company from on high.

In the manner of government manna, the $500,000 quickly began to multiply. Another $2.1 million was added in 1973, then $2.4 million more in 1974. Further modifications ran the grand total to $7.1 million.

Now here's the cozy coincidence. One of Scott Publishing's vice presidents, Jack Taub, was a close friend and personal adviser to Bailar.

But it gets even cozier. Scott Publishing needed someone to print the stamp books. The printing contract, adding up to over $1 million, was granted to Industries America.

This happens to be a wholly owned subsidiary of American Can, the company that Klassen and Bailar used to run before they joined the Postal Service.

Bailar contends that he asked his friend Taub to make sure there was competition for the million-dollar printing contract. Taub claims he gave the contract to Industries America, because the paper shortage had left other companies without enough paper to handle the job.

This is disputed by congressional investigators who claim at least half a dozen other firms could have done the printing. But this much is certain: The $7.1 million stamp book deal is typical of the way the Postal Service, under Klassen andBailar, does business.

Footnote: The questionable contract hasn't hurt Bailar's postal career. He was just promoted to be deputy postmaster general, the No. 2 spot in the postal hierarchy.

CARNIVOROUS SHREDDER: The Kemp Leaf Shredder, which is supposed to chew up autumn leaves, has also shredded the arms of at least a dozen people.

One dentist, trying to push material into the shredder with the stick that comes with the machine, had his hand drawn into the rotating blades. He lost his hand and thus his livelihood.

The danger, according to the confidential Kemp file, was called to the attention of the Consumer Product Safety Commission in September 1973. It took the bureaucrats three full months even to contact the Kemp Co. about the problem.

Not until March 1974 was th Bureu of Standaards asked to test the shredder. It took another four months for the bureaucrats to discover the machine was hazardous.

From July until October, memos were exchanged and meetings were held. Finally, in late October, the commission decided to ask the company for a voluntary response.

On November 7, some 14 months after the commission had been alerted to the danger, a warning was issued. It was worded as if the company had just discovered the problem and had voluntarily notified the commission.

Were the dangerous shredders then removed from the market? No, the commission was satisfied with a mechanical "fix" and a warning sign on all machines. A draft press release demonstrates how the bureaucrats protect the consumer. It begins:

Footnote: A spokesman for the commission explained with refreshing candor that the delays had occurred "because our staff is screwed up." But he contended things are getting straightened out. The Kemp Co., for is part, promised to do what was "morally right," even to the point of going out of business to correct the hazard.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Early this year, the Senate Commerce Committee will call in government officials to find out why they failed to protect workers from vinyl chloride, the deadly gas used to make plastics, auto upholstery, garden hoses, phonograph records and other goods. The gas has caused liver cancers in vinyl chloride workers and is suspected of causing birth defects in Ohio towns near an industrial plant using the gas ... The Navy makes a 75 per cent profit on those shrill boatswains' pipes used for "piping aboard" the top brass. Boatswains who lose their silver whistles are charged $4 for a new one. A purchase order shows that the Navy recently bought 2,480 of the whistles for $3.25 each ... The state of Georgia has found a novel means of gettin some of that new Arab money into the South. It has bought the entire back cover of Fobes magazine of invite Arabs to locate industries below the Mason-Dixon line. The magazine will be distributed throughout the Arab world, with articles explaining American business to the oil-rich potentates.

Brunke-Colley wed

Mrs. Lynn A. Colley

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a soft ivory polyester crystal creation with the classic silhouette. The dress was trimmed with imported French Chantilly lace accented with tiny satin bows and apricot rosettes. The Victorian neckline and billowy sleeves also were highlighted with Chantilly lace, apricot rosettes and encrusted with seed pearls. Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Since Christmas is the season to be jolly, I wanted to share a mimeographed note that fell out of a Christmas card. No opinion is needed. I have already formed my own.

"Dear friend, I thought you might like to know that the doctors removed a tumor the size of a baseball from Gertrude's stomach. It was not malignant, Lord be praised. She is getting along fine. Gert ate a corned beef sandwich last night, her first in years. It looks like we will have a happy 1975, after all. Hope you do, too." (Signature Deleted.) How's THAT for taste..--Philadelphia

Dear Phil: "To each his own," said the lady as she kissed the baboon.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 44years old, although I could pass for 35 easy. When my husband died three years ago I went into a depression. My daughter and son-in-law were a great comfort to me. I love them both very much.

I'm ashamed to admit it but I began to love my son-in-law TOO much. We became involved in a sexual relationship which I thought would end in a few months, but it didn't.

Now I find I am pregnant and don't know what to do. I haven't told my son-in-law, but my daughter has already commented on my added weight. (She has no idea what has been going on.)

Because I am in the menopause I wasn't sure I was pregnant until I went to the doctor yesterday. He confirmed it.

Please, Ann, tell me what to do.--Frantic

Dear Fran: Go back to your doctor immediately and ask him what he feels is the best approach to your problem. You should discuss some important facts with him which you omitted from your letter. (1) Would abortion violate your religious principles.. (2) Would it be safe at this time.. (3) How would you, a widow, feel about raising a child without a husband..

I strongly advise against revealing the identity of the child's father should you decide to have it. Such a revelation would almost surely ruin your daughter's marriage and create endless problems. Good luck to you. You'll need it.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night I heard my husband laughing and asked him what was so funny. He said, "That Ann Landers is something else!" So I read the column, and now I'm writing--something I never thought I'd do.

I've been married 40 years, raised three children of my own and several for relatives. Our kitchen has always been a happy place. I've seen tiny tots on chairs frosting cookies, teenagers making fudge, and college boys broiling hamburgers. I have also stood in that kitchen for hours, cooking for neighbors who have had a death in the family.

We have a rule in our house. If you are too busy to do the dishes, don't worry--somebody will do them. The rule works and nobody gets mad.

This morning when my husband left for work he gave me an extra kiss and said, "Thanks for your messy kitchen." I know what hemeant. My kitchen looked like a tornado had hit it, because I've been busy with a relative's sick child. Those silly dishes can wait. They aren't people who need love.--Michigander

Dear Mich: People ARE more important than things, but your "standing rule" wouldn't work in most families. They'd run out of clean dishes and somebody would always be mad.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage--What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. World News

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Newman celebrated his 101st birthday and vowed to continue as pastor of St. Peter's Baptist Church "as long as I am able."

"I feel just the same as I did when I was 25," he told well-wishers Sunday at a reception at the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church. "I just thank God for the privilege of being here this long."

He has served as pastor of St. Peter's about 40 years.

SEATTLE (AP) — Ducks may look picturesque paddling across a lake, but from the standpoint of water quality the view is not so pretty.

John Courchene of the city Water Department says eight ducks create as much pollution as one man. "If you've got 2,000 ducks in a reservoir, you've got trouble," he says.

Water Supt. Kenneth Lowthian says one of the worst problem areas is Youngs Lake in southeast King County, where rockets are being used to scare off the ducks.

The seven-inch rockets are fired over a group of rafting ducks. The missiles explode in a burst of cardboard and paper confetti, scaring away the ducks.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Layoffs in many industries have boosted the ranks of those willing to take low-paying, strenuous jobs as fruit pickers, industry officials say.

"The entire crop is going to be picked this year for the first time in a long time," says Dan K. Richardson, chairman of the Florida Citrus Commmission.

Says Richardson, "Any time you've got a large labor market, it's going to stabilize the people who work in the groves. "We're getting better production, as a rule, than in the past few years."

Other officials say layoffs in Florida's leading industries of tourism and construction are responsible for the large labor force in the groves.

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Baird, who has made a name as a champion of birth control, says that threats on his life may force him into retirement.

Baird, who is currently involved in a court challenge of the Massachusetts law that requires minors to gain their parents' consent for an abortion, said Sunday death threats have already forced him to live apart from his family.

"I really don't know where my life is going to go this year after this case," Baird said in an interview on WNAC-TV's Newsmakers show. "But I do wish there would be some people out there who'd recognize that all I'm trying to say for these 11 years is that people have a right to be free and control their own bodies."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Seven county officials in California have found a way to beat the soaring cost of living. They collect a salary and a pension for the same government job. By retiring from office for only a few days, the seven — including five sheriffs — have taken advantage of a loophole in state law. They are now eligible for two checks a month. All seven left office Dec. 31 after up to 32 years service. They begin new elected terms in the same offices today and will begin to receive both pension and salary checks. Monterey County Sheriff W.A. Davenport was the first official to declare this year he would take advantage of the loophole. He will get a $1,500-a-month pension along with his $2,400-a-month salary.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Convicted Watergate burglar G. Gordon Liddy says former President Richard M. Nixon did not act ruthlessly enough in coping with the scandal and should have destroyed the tape recordings that eventually drove him from office.

Waltrip named drive treasurer

W. H. Waltrip, 100 Daniel St., has been appointed a campaign treasurer for this year's Scott County march against Muscular Dystrophy, according to Kent Hornberger, district director for Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Inc. for eastern Missouri.

On Jan. 14, volunteer marchers will conduct a house to house appeal for funds to continue the research work of the associations and to provide patient services to those affilicted with neuromuscular disease in Scott and other eastern Missouri counties.

Waltrip, a bank cashier, said, "The Scott County drive is part of a nationwide effort on the part of hundreds of thousands of volunteers. In the interest of community service and for the convenience of the volunteer marchers and donors, the Secrutiy National Bank will be the depository for local campaign funds."

Dexter not liable in death

DEXTER — A Stoddard County CircuitCourt jury ruled Monday in Bloomfield that the city of Dexter was not liable in the death of a 4-year-old boy who drowned in a rain swollen drainage ditch in Dexter May 21.

The $100,000 liability suit was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Peacock of Dexter, parents of John Randal Peacock, the vvictim.

The petition filed by Mr. and Mrs. Peacock stated that the city was negligent in construction of the ditch and in allowing it to exist, and that the open ditch was in a dangerous and unguarded condition and that the ditch filled with water from a great portion of the city and flowed at a rapid rate through a residential area of Dexter.

According to Dexter police, the Peacock child was playing alongside the ditch on Locust street near old Highway 60 with his two brothers, Mike, 18, and Jerry, 10, when rapidly- flowing water swept him off his feet and into the open ditch. He was carried almost four blockks before he was found and pulled out of the ditch. The child was pronounced dead on arrival at Dexter Memorial Hospital after several attempts to revive him failed.

Dr. Lamb

Reader has rock on belly

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Am I hurting myself by placing a flat rock (20 pounds) on my stomach? I usually lie flat on the floor, place the rock on my stomach and concentrate on flexing my stomach muscles.

It's very difficult for me to lose my flabby stomach. Swimming, bicycle riding or exercising all summer did not even phase the fat bulge.

I'm 47, female and weigh 150 pounds. I'm 67 inches tall. I was warned by a friend that a heavy object on the stomach is unhealthy. I disagree.

DEAR READER — Whether a heavy object on the stomach is dangerous or not depends on what it is. If you are not careful you will win the weight-lifting contest for the stomach muscle division.

Whenever you want to strengthen a muscle you should do exercises that contract that muscle. You do exercises that bend the elbow to strengthen the biceps. By using a weight while bending the elbow and contracting the biceps you progressively strengthen and enlarge the biceps muscle.

The main stomach muscles are attached at the lower part of your ribs and to the ligaments and bones of the pelvis. When you do a sit-up these muscles are contracted and strengthened. Ordinary sit-ups affect the upper muscles most and lying on your back while lifting your feet off the floor with the knees straight helps strengthen the lower muscles. So sit-ups and leg lifts or those exercises that are modifications of these basic exercises are the ones that help to tighten up the abdomen.

Voluntarily contracting and relaxing the abdominal muscles helps, too, whether you are lying down, sitting or standing. Literally sucking in that abdomen as much as you can and holding this position five to 15 seconds, resting, and then repeating the maneuver for regular exercise periods daily does help some.

Your problem is not unusual. You simply cannot get rid of a fat abdomen without getting rid of fat. A person with poor muscle tone and a sagging pot can improve the shape of the abdomen with exercise, but if you have fat inside the abdominal cavity and under the skin, the only thing that works is eliminating the fat. This usually requires a change in diet, combined with an exercise program. There is no way you can compress a pound of lard and make it smaller. The same is true of body fat.

Now that rock on the stomach may not cause you any trouble, but I'm not wild about the idea. People who have a hernia through the diaphragm shouldn't do this because the increased pressure would help force the stomach through the hole in the diaphragm. Obesity contributes to this type of hernia, and it is quite common in middle-aged or older people. Pregnancy causes a temporary hernia of this sort in over half of pregnant women. If you have no tendency toward a hiatal hernia and have had no difficulty with the rock, I doubt it will harm you, but don't expect too much from it. You can get much better results if you can lose excess body fat with a good dietary program. That doesn't mean one of the fad or crash diet efforts, either.

What's the law?

The case of the pious prisoner

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Peter claimed to believe in God, but he was fearful that God didn't believe in him. Jailed for having committed a social wrong, he became somewhat of a religious fanatic.

For example, he insisted upon growing a beard, despite a prison regulation prohibiting such shrubbery, claiming that it was a gift from his creator and was required for pious reasons.

"The regulation violates my constitutional freedom of religion," insisted the prisoner vehemently. "What God has given, no man may put asunder. And, God gave me my beard."

"That may be," conceded the warden, "but, we can't have prisoners running around with beards. Aside from reasons of health, if they all started to wear beards we wouldn't be able to tell one prisoner from another. Without knowing who's who, we wouldn't be able to tell what's what."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit pious Pete to keep his beard.

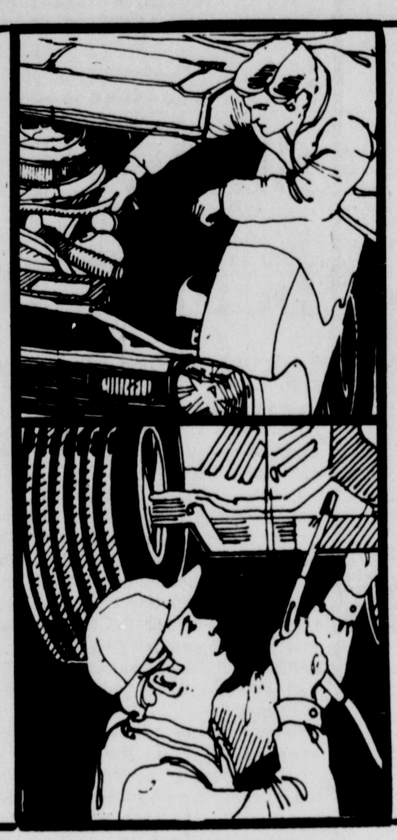

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that lawful incarceration brings with it necessary limitations of many privileges and rights. For reasons of personal cleanliness and for personal identification, concluded the judge, the regulation against beards, under prison conditions, appears neither unreasonable nor arbitrary.

Shelby State beats TRCC

POPLAR BLUFF----Shelby State of Memphis, Tennessee ended the TRCC Raiders reign as champion of the TRCC Classic of Champions tournament here Saturday night 105-89.

Coach Gene Bess' Raiders had the advantage in height but Shelby State was the quicker and better shooting team on this night.

Shelby State came out in a full court press and upset the fast breaking tactics of the Raiders and TRCC began to turn over the ball and fell behind from the start and were never able to get into the ball game.

Shelby State beat the Raiders in every phase of the game. Although smaller in stature the team from Memphis showed the most hustle and out rebounded the Raiders and beat the defense down court on several occasions for the easy buckets.

TRCC was getting only one shot at the basket throughout the first half and STCC was needing only one shot as they were hitting at a very high percentage from start to finish.

5-9 Curtis Bivens was the team leader for STCC as the little guard was unstoppable as he drove up court despite the full court pressure put on by the Raiders.

Anthony Johnson, Terry Boone, Larry Risby and Paul Jenious scored in double figures for ST with Johnson and Boone hitting 26 and 22 points respectively.

The Raiders were getting scoring from only two players in the first half as Larry Marshall and Jerry Kellum were the only threats until Alvin Pierce began to find the range in the second half.

STCC jumped to a 29-19 lead and TRCC threatened only once, getting within five.

The hot shooting Memphis team led 58-48 at the half and came out shooting in the second half and their defense stopped all the Raiders except Pierce but the former Charleston Bluejay couldn't score points as fast as Shelby State and the Raiders began to fall farther behind.

The loss was the fourth for the Raiders against nine wins on the season.

SPEAK CLEARLY

WELLS, England (AP) — Lessons in reading the lesson in church have been started by two speech consultants appointed to the Anglican diocese of Bath and Wells. Training sessions in speaking and reading have been held for clergy and laity, who have been able to criticize their own performances with the help of a cassette recorder.

The consultants, Mrs. Brigid Somerset and Mrs. Helen Harvey, say that "nervousness and lack of confidence" affect many people, but much can be done to alleviate these problems.

Superbowl teams hope for change

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — If there is one play both Minnesota and Pittsburgh would like to see next Sunday, it's a reverse.

The Vikings would like to see a reverse of their fortunes in the Super Bowl and the Steelers are hoping for a change in history.

As the teams got their first looks today at the practice facilities they'll be using as the prelude to the the National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium, both had to be thinking back a bit as well as looking ahead.

Vikings' Coach Bud Grant faces the unpleasant prospect of becoming the first coach to come out on the short end of three Super Bowls. Don Shula also lost two — one with Baltimore and one with Miami — but he also tucked away two victories.

Grant's first setback came right here five years ago, when the Kansas City Chiefs upset the Vikings 23-7. The other was qo24-7 lost to Shula's Dolphins.

The Steelers, meanwhile, have never lost an NFL championshp gfme — but that's because they have never played one. It's their first shot at all the marbles in 42 years.

And, like the Vikes, they'll be trying to alter a bit of Super Bowl history, mainly that first time entries can't cut it against teams that have been there before.

Consider that Kansas City lost its first Super Bowl game to Green Bay then beat Minnesota, and that Baltimore lost to the New York Jets, then beat Dallas ... and that Dallas then beat Miami ...and that Miami then beat Washington.

The Steelers have also found New Orleans a less than hospitable city. They've played here four times and have managed only a split, including the 28-7 victory this year.

Incidentally, a week after losing that game, the Saints ventured into Minnesota and lost again, this time by a 29-9 score. In two games in New Orleans, the Vikings have likewise achieved only a split.

Hula Bowl billed as passing game

HONOLULU (AP) — The 1974 Hula Bowl was billed as a passing game and it lived up to expectations.

Five of the nation's top collegiate quarterbacks — undaunted by strong winds and occasional rain — filled the air with 65 passes for 744 yards, more than double the total rushing yardage.

Tennessee's Condredge Holloway passed for 202 yards in leading the East to a 35-24 victory over the West in the annual college all-star contest Saturday. The 175-pound quarterback also picked up 51 yards rushing and was named player of the game.

Michigan's Dennis Franklin added 62 yards and Harvard's Milt Holt had 47 in the East attack.

"We went for a passing game because we wanted to be balanced and we had the receivers," said East Coach Bill Battle of Tennessee.

Larry Burton of Purdue caught two touchdown passes for 114 yards, while Danny Buggs of West Virginia had six receptions for 103 yards and Rick Upchurch of Minnesota had five for 48 yards.

The West relied even more on passing, gaining 429 yards in the air, compared with 131 on the ground.

Southern Cal's Pat Haden completed 12 of 19 passes, including three touchdown throws, for 288 yards. California's Steve Bartkowski added 141.

Coryell named NFL Coach of the Year

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If there are any changes in the methods of Don Coryell, they involve mainly his reappraisal of defense.

And the onetime collegiate offensive advocate, who converted the St. Louis Cardinals from losers to winners in 1974, has parlayed the reassessment into National Football League Coach of the Year honors.

"We gave up a lot of yards but very few points," observed Coryell, 50, who was chosen for The Associated Press honor by a runaway margin in votes.

"That means we were scrapping and fighting," added Coryell, whose team posted a 10-4 record and won the National Conference East title.

"We got pushed around but we were tough. If I had to pick our biggest area in improvement, it'd have to be defense just for what it allowed our offense to do."

Coryell, whose 127-24-3 record at Whittier and San Diego State was nearly unmatched in 15 collegiate seasons, inherited a Cardinal team steeped in mediocrity two years ago.

An immediate offensive renaissance geared mainly to passing ensued, but the club surrendered more than it produced and yielded 365 points in a 4-9-1 season.

"We didn't set any goals for ourselves, only to improve," reflected Coryell, whose team had a 3-4 record in exhibition before permitting 218 points in 1974.

"But the first two ball games were great games because our defense stopped both teams at the 10-yard line," he noted.

"We beat Philadelphia on four straight late incompletions, then beat the Washington Redskins with a late interception. Those two, I think, gave our team great confidence."

Following the victories, the Cardinals mowed down five more opponents and were 7-0 before flagged down 17-14 by the Dallas Cowboys.

The team also bowed the following week to National Conference champion Minnesota but recovered to win twice more and agaon on the season's final day for the title.

"I'm sure ther's no way in the world you'll find another team that would make so big a turnaround in such a short period," remarked Coryell, who called the accomplishment his greatest coaching thrill.

"It's an old cliche, of course, but I think you'll find that any winning team is not just individuals," he added.

"Individually we weren't necessarily a great team — just a very, very average team. We all realized this — all the coaches and all the players — that we needed each other to win."

Coryell, who polled 50 of 78 votes for the coaching honor, was trailed in the tabulation among sports writers and broadcasters by Houston's Sid Gillman, who had 12.

Behind the two were Buffalo's Lou Saban, New England's Chuck Fairbanks and Oakland's John Madden. Chuck Knox of Los Angeles won the honor in 1973.

"We accomplished so much more than we ever dreamed we would," Coryell acknowledged. "This is an award to the Cardinal organization, not to me as an individual."

Astros' pitcher found dead; at autopsy report scheduled

HOUSTON (AP) — Autopsy reports were expected today on the bodies of Houston Astros' pitcher Don Wilson and his 5-year-old son, Alexander, both found in their carbon monoxide-filled home Sunday.

Wilson, 29, preparing to start his 10th season with the Astros, was found slumped over in his car in the attached garage of his fashionable home in the city's southwest section.

Young Alexander was found in a bedroom above the garage. Mrs. Wilson was listed in fair condition at a hospital with injuries that included a broken left jaw.

The Wilson's 9-year-old daughter, Denise, was in critical condition at a hospital and remained in a coma late Sunday night.

The tragedy started unfolding early Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Wilson phoned the fire department.

Fire department ambulance service spokesman Jack MacGillis said a woman called saying she could not wake up her children and her husband was in the car. He said the call came in at 1:24 p.m., CST.

Juvenile officer T.R. Trinkle said he talked to Mrs. Wilson at the hospital but she was under sedation.

He quoted her as saying she awoke after hearing a car motor running and went to check on the children.

She said the children "sounded like they were crying in their sleep."

Trinkle quoted her as saying she picked up the boy and took him to the master bedroom and shut the doors to both the daughter's bedroom and the master bedroom. She said she could not go back to sleep because the car motor was still running so she went to check and found her husband.

She said she called a registered nurse friend who told her to check for a pulse.

She said she did not know how she suffered the broken jaw.

The news sent gloom throughout the Astros' organization.

"It was a terrible shock," Astros' General Manager Spec Richardson said. "The whole organization is very sorry over this tragedy."

Bernie defeats Richland 68-58

BERNIE — It was a rough and tumble affair Friday night at the Bernie gym as the host Mules recorded their fifth win out of their last six outings by stunning Richland 68-58. Bernie, playing without their leading scorer Kevin Sides, still managed to build a five point lead at halftime 28-23 as the Rebels went cold turkey from the field. Richland's talented Steve McAnulty got into early foul trouble and had to sit out most of the game which didn't help RHS any either. Led by Stacy Dunn's game-high 20 points, Bernie moved to nine point lead at the end of three quarters. The Rebels came out in the fourth period with a bang, but it wss too often followed by the referee's whistle as the Mules sank free throw after throw to build a 16-point bulge early in the quarter. Richland actually outshot Bernie from the field 26 to 22, but a 24 to 6 Bernie advantage from the charity stripe was more than the Mules needed. Bernie started substituting freely midway thru the final frame to make the affair seem closer than it actually was.

BHS made it a twin-kill on the night as the JV Mules earlier had slipped a 48 to 45 win past the Rebel JV.

Today in U. S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, January sixth, the sixth day of 1975. There are 359 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1412, the French national heroine, Joan of Arc, was born.

On this date —

In 1759, George Washington was married to the widow, Martha Dandridge Custis.

In 1912, New Mexico became the 47th state.

In 1919, former President Theodore Roosevelt died at his Oyster Bay, New York home.

In 1941, President Franklin Roosevelt defined the American goal of "Four Freedoms" — freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear.

Five years ago: White students generally stayed away from desegregated schools in Mississippi as more of the schools opened under Federal court integration orders.

One year ago: Troops, tanks and armored cars guarded London's Heathrow Airport after reports that Arab terrorists planned to shoot down airliners with surface-to-air missiles.

Today's birthdays: Entertainer Danny Thomas is 61 years old. Actress Loretta Young is 62. Pollster Louis Harris is 54.

Thought for today: A bad man is worse when he pretends to be a saint — Francis Bacon, English philosopher and writer, 1561-1626.

-UTTAS Flies-

FLIGHT TEST SUCCESSFUL — Sikorsky Aircraft's new twin turbine powered UTTAS (Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System) makes its first flight "over the fence" (away from the flight field). The YUH-60A UTTAS is one of two advanced technology prototype helicopters being developed for the U.S. Army. Boeing Vertof Company's UTTAS entry is expected to be flight tested this November. The UTTAS is designed to serve as the Army's primary utility transport helicopter of the 1980's. (Photo courtesy of Sikorsky Aircraft) (ANF)

Meeting— In addition to learning their new engineer skills at Fort Belvoir, Va., student representatives meet with school brigade cadre regularly to discuss current or potential race relations/equal opportunity problems. From left, at the 1st Battalion, U.S. Army Engineer School Brigade meeting are: Second Lt. Leroy Davis, Washington, D.C.; Pfc Carol Kurowski, Hollywood, Fla.; Pvt. Cynthia A. Murphy, Niles, Mich.; Sgt. James Guzman, Guam; and Second Lt. Gary Musgrave, Pittsburgh, Pa.

DOESN'T HURT A BIT! Smiling young citizen gets his blood pressure checked by Heart Association volunteer in Marin County, California. More than 23 million Americans have high blood pressure, which greatly increases the risk of stroke, heart attack and kidney failure. A "silent" disease that has no special symptoms, high blood pressure is easily detected and usually controllable, according to the American Heart Association. Untreated, high blood pressure will contribute to more than 500,000 deaths in 1975.

BOEING VERTOL UTTAS ENTRY FLIES — The new twin turbine powered UTTAS (Utility Tactical Transport Aircraft System) makes its first flight at Long Island, New York. The YUH-61A UTTAS is one of two advanced technology prototype helicopters currently under development for the U.S. Army. The Sikorsky Aircraft's entry is also undergoing flight testing. The UTTAS is designed as the Army's utility transport helicopter of the 1980's. (Photo courtesy of Boeing Vertol)

A Way of Life

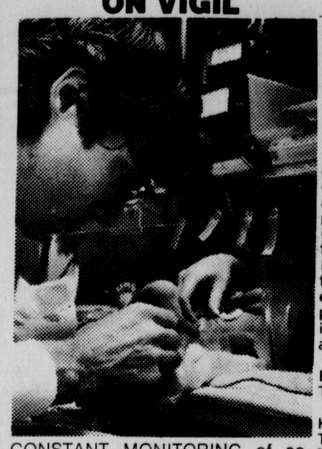

Volunteer work is a traditional part of the American way of life. Three women who share a concern for improving health services for mothers and infants are among the "stars" of a new March of Dimes educational film called "A Way of Life." Lullelia Harrison (right), a counselor in the Houston school system, also is Texas volunteer advisor for the March of Dimes, and volunteer National Projects Director of Zeta Phi Beta sorority. She has traveled around the nation during the past 2 years helping Zeta chapters set up "Stork's Nests," where women who attend prenatal care clinics can get maternity wear, infant clothes, and other baby needs. Charlotte Wilen (bottom right) is described by Georgia's Gov. Jimmy Carter as "that 96-pound dynamo who may be a one-woman answer to the energy crisis." Ms. Wilen founded BIB (Better Infant Births) to bring better prenatal care and education to Atlanta. She also served as founding chairman of the state's new Council on Maternal and Infant Health. Emi Fenenbock (lower left), former chapter chairman of the Los Angeles March of Dimes, began the annual Children's Art Show for youngsters with birth defects. Their paintings are displayed at a bank, then reproduced as Christmas cards.

ON VIGIL

GRANDMOM Dawn, long-necked resident of the Brookfield, Ill., Zoo, plants a kiss on Ann, her granddaughter, who, at only two-weeks old, weighs 200 pounds and stands 6 feet tall. Ann has a lot of growing to do before she catches up with 13-year-old Dawn, though.

away. Sightings from that distance are not common, but do happen.

Visitors are welcome in the refuges. Certain roads and sections are marked as not open to the public, but the open areas should provide a good chance at seeing a distant eagle.

With the best of luck and a good set of binoculars early on a cold morning you may get to see a bald eagle. You will need to drive slowly and carefully watch the trees, especially near water, but when you do see the flash of white from the sun shining on the head of this great bird, you will know why he was chosen and is protected as the symbol of this country.

Group opposes new state law

The Missouri State Assessor's Association has announced its opposition to a new state law which raises the assesment of personal property taxes from 30 per cent of its value to 33 and one third per cent of its value.

The law, which went into effect Dec. 31, will increase property taxes by about 11 per cent. The increase will appear on the 1975 tax bills.

The association said the law becomes effective at an inappropriate time due to inflation and recession. The law was passed two years ago when the economic conditions were better in the state, the association says.

Two bills have been prefiled in the state legislature which would cut the tax back to 30 per cent. The association is urging taxpayers to support the cut and is urging Gov. Christopher Bond to consider the possibility of issuing an executive order or take other action to delay or stop the tax increase.

OBERLIN DEDICATES $200,000 ORGAN

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — The Oberlin College Conservatory of Music has dedicated a new $200,000 organ. Marie-Claire Alain, French organist, played a recital and E. Power Biggs, American organist, received an honorary doctor of music degree.

The installation of the organ has been in progress since its arrival from the Netherlands in August. It was designed and built by Dirk A. Flentrop.

The organ contains 4,000 pipes, weighs nine tons, stands 25 feet high and is 18 feet wide. It is constructed in modified Baroque style, with colors red, blue and gold. The organ is a 44-stop mechanical action instrument and is the largest of its kind at an educational institution in the United States.

It was commissioned by the family of Frank C. and Grace Langeland Van Cleef, in memory of George Whitfield Andrews, a student and later faculty member at Oberlin from 1870 to 1931.
